Later drinking hours asked for

By BELINDA McCOY

Allowing eating and drinking establishments in College Station to keep later business hours was a topic of discussion in a city council workshop meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Representatives of local clubs spoke to councilmen about extending legal business hours of alcoholic beverage sales in the city. The clubs' representatives said they would like to be allowed to stay open until 2 a.m. every night.

The present city law requires drinking establishments to close at midnight on weeknights and at 1 a.m. on weekends.

Robert Todd, a representative of Culpepper Properties, which rents space to several clubs in College Station, said that because of higher rent, the businesses need the extra hours to pick up extra income.

Clubs do their best business between the hours of 11 p.m. and midnight on weeknights and 11 p.m. and 1 a.m. on weekends, Todd said. Extension of business hours would allow the clubs to sell more drinks and generate more income for the city in the form of taxes on mixed drinks.

Tommy Dallis, owner of The Electric Cowboy and Faces, said that extension of business hours would also help reduce the confusion caused when an entire club full of people is closed so early. "College kids are used to staying out late. We have to kick them all out at once — one large group. If we can close at 2, then they won't all leave at once. They will be leaving gradually."

This would also reduce the amount of sudden traffic on the road, said Dallis, and the incidence of violence after hours caused by restless customers.

Councilmen attending the meeting agreed to discuss the matter at a future council meeting and to ask the city staff and police department to study the possible extension.

The council members also discussed an ordinance codification project in which the city's ordinances would be indexed and re-organized into categories for easier reference.

A Bottle in the Sea

I am like the little bottle in the sea, as full as it will hold. The bottle is in the sea, and the sea is in the bottle; so I am in Christ, and Christ is in me. But, besides that bottleful in the sea, there is a whole ocean beyond; the difference is, that the bottle has to be filled over again, every day, evermore.

Armadillo tickets sell as keepsakes

AUSTIN — A man who salvaged 100,000 tickets to past performances at the Armadillo World Headquarters is advertising them for sale at $1 each as mementos of the old music hall which is being demolished.

Rufus Spaulding of Wimberley said he found the tickets in the back of a skating rink adjoining the Armadillo World Headquarters, and "saved the tickets from the hungry jaws of a bulldozer."

The Armadillo and skating rink are being torn down to make room for a $37 million hotel and office park complex.

Spaulding said the tickets apparently had been tossed into the room as an afterthought.

"I don't know what the room was being used for. I call it the mystery room," he said.

Spaulding placed ads in two local newspapers to sell the tickets as Armadillo World Headquarters memorabilia. Some may be worth more than $1, he said, if they were for concerts by big-name stars.
