Student senate OKs funds for more Beutel doctors

By PAMELA EADES
Battalion Reporter
Three new doctors might begin seeing patients at the A. P. Beutel Health Center in September. Funds to hire the new doctors were approved by the student senate finance committee last night. These funds will come from student service fees.

Janet Golub, a student senate representative, said funds for the new doctors must come from student service fees because the $15 health service fee is set by the Texas Legislature.

Golub, an off-campus graduate representative, said the additional doctors could reduce waiting time to see a doctor from three hours to 1½ hours.

Goswick said the new physicians would help ease the case load of the seven doctors working at the center.

These doctors see an average of 35 to 45 patients a day, Goswick said. He said private physicians see a maximum of 30 patients a day.

Goswick said finding offices and examining rooms for the new doctors would be difficult.

The health center was originally designed for six doctors and the seven working there now are already cramped for space, Goswick said.

Goswick said he wants an addition to the health center listed in the Master Plan for long range development of the University.

Golub said this goal would be the subject of her next senate

Also being considered by Golub and Goswick is a change in the University rules and regulations which would abolish health center excuses for missing classes.

A&M opens faculty prize nominations

By JANE G. BRUST
Battalion Staff
Nominations are now open for this year's recipients of the Faculty Distinguished Achievement Awards.

These monetary awards, given by the Texas A&M University Association of Former Students, recognize outstanding achievement by faculty and staff members in the areas of teaching, research, student relations, administration and continuing education and extension.

All nominations are due in the offices of the appropriate academic deans or extension/continuing education directors no later than February 20. Nominations can be made by individual students and faculty members and by University clubs and organizations.

Those nominations are then due in the office of the Dean of Faculties no later than March 2. Final selections will be made by the selection committee by March 13.

The selection committee consists of more than 20 persons, including student representatives of campus organizations, faculty members from each academic college and representatives of the extension services and continuing education programs.

Each award consists of $1,000, a framed certificate and an engraved watch. The following awards will be presented:

- six awards for distinguished achievement in teaching
- three awards for distinguished achievement in research
- two awards for distinguished achievement in individual student relationships
- two awards for distinguished achievement in continuing education/extension

— two awards for distinguished achievement as a member of the staff or administration

Winners will be announced at the faculty meeting May 7.

Boat sinking death count now at 4

United Press International
PORT ISABEL — Coast Guard and Halliburton Co. officials said today a body had been discovered on a beach near Port Isabel, causing speculation that it might be that of one of two crew members still missing from the tugboat "Galveston" that capsized Feb. 10.

Lt. Steve Sparks of the Coast Guard station in Corpus Christi said investigators went to the beach early today.

Still missing are Deborah Cope, 28, and Arthur Volkert, 20, both truck drivers for Halliburton.

Three of six people who were aboard the tugboat have been found dead in the 55-degree Gulf waters. The bodies of tugboat crewman Recendo Vasquez, 22, and Halliburton employees Ken Blaze, 25, and Jim Lala, 28, were recovered during the weekend.

The bodies were found at different locations near Port O'Connor and Port Aransas by searchers using a Halliburton Co. helicopter.

Tugboat captain Tom DeForest, who ordered the boat abandoned when rough seas threatened to break up the towboat and two barges it was pulling, was found alive on a mud island in Matagorda Bay not far from the wreck site.

DeForest since has recovered from effects of the chilling waters. The four Halliburton employees, all of whom worked for the oil well servicing division of the company and were assigned to the Victoria plant, were members of an oil well cementing crew returning from an offshore work site.

Their equipment and supplies were aboard the two barges that broke away when the tug sank in 20 feet of water near the entrance to Port O'Connor. The barges and equipment were found beached not far from the wreck scene, officials of the Duncan, Okla.-based Halliburton company said.
