Food, crafts set up in MSC

Int'l cultures to be on display

By SHEILA FRAZIER

Cultures, fashions, foods and talents from all over the globe will be in Aggieland this week as Texas A&M's International Student Association presents a week of displays and activities in the Memorial Student Center.

Aggies from 85 countries have compiled displays of artifacts, crafts, weavings, photographs and slide presentations to take home-bound Aggies for a "Walk Around the World."

The booths are grouped by world regions in the halls of the MSC so visitors can walk through street bazaars and open air markets of Asia, the Middle East, Africa, Europe, the Caribbean, and Central and South America.

Thursday night, students will be able to sample delicacies of foreign kitchens in the MSC and watch an international fashion and talent show in Rudder Auditorium.

A Food Fair from 6 to 8 p.m., featuring the native dishes of foreign students, will start off the evening. International chefs will be competing for trophies for outstanding entries. Everyone attending can judge the food and take home recipes to try themselves.

Following the food exhibition will be a fashion show featuring styles from Sweden to Sri Lanka. Members of I.S.A. will model the traditional dress of their homelands.

Musical entertainment will conclude the exotic as the international students present a talent show including tranquil Eastern instrumentation and lively Latin dance. Both the fashion and talent show will be held in Rudder Auditorium beginning at 8 p.m.

Tickets for all evening events April 2 will be sold at the Rudder Tower ticket office for $6 per person.

"I should've talked to GTE"

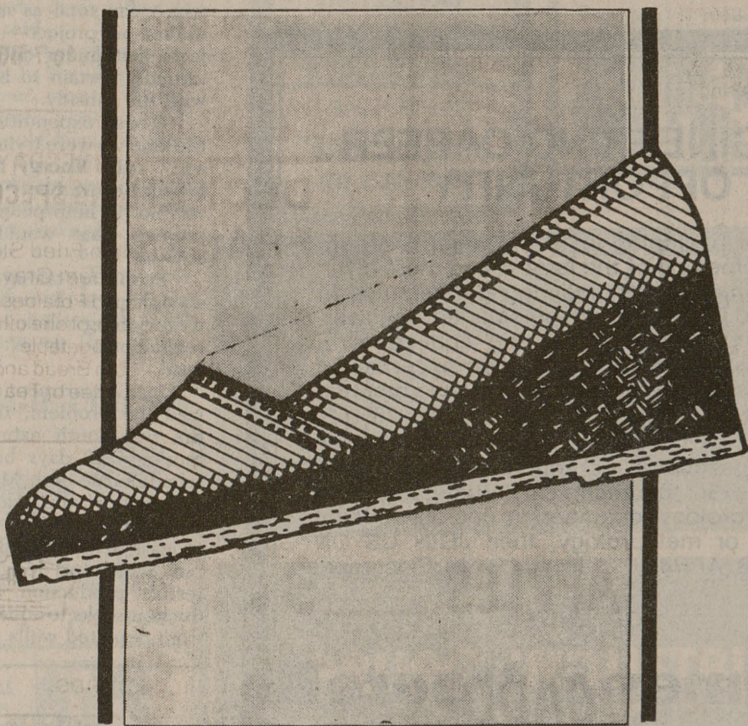

"When I bought my telephone system from a communications company I thought I was pretty smart. Now, I hope I'm smart enough to fix it."

If you buy your own telephone system, consider this: Who will be responsible for keeping your system operable...and for how much? If GTE supplies your equipment, we accept the total responsibility for keeping it working to your satisfaction. So, before you make a decision to get your telephone equipment somewhere else, remember: No one has the technicians, equipment or expertise to service your phones better or faster than GTE. It's a big decision, so get all the facts. Call the GTE Marketing Office.
