Ags beat Tulane with 10-run sixth

By FRANK L. CHRISTLIEB

Although the Tulane University baseball team came into Tuesday night's Olsen Field double header with a fine .325 team batting average, the Texas Aggies weren't too impressed.

And although seven of TU's starters in the first game were hitting above .300, the Texas A&M baseball team obviously wasn't aware of it, or else it wouldn't have treated the Green Wave so rudely.

That is, if a 4-3, 11-1 sweep is considered rude.

The Aggies' bats were relatively quiet in the first game, but in the sixth inning of the second game, someone must have commented about their dormancy. His plan worked, because a 1-1 tie became an 11-1 Texas A&M lead so fast that he didn't even have a chance to retract his comment.

Rodney Hodde's grand slam was only part of the sixth inning outburst which saw 13 Aggies come to the plate, and only part of a game which saw every Aggie who played score at least one run.

Robert Slavens and David Flores combined to pitch a five-hitter, with Flores earning his seventh win of the season against three losses. The win was the Aggies' seventh in a row, and their 11th win in the last 13 games.

Although this series means nothing to the Aggies and their SWC tournament hopes, they played as if the green and blue uniforms of the Green Wave were really burnt orange and white, surely in anticipation of this weekend's all-important series with the University of Texas.

In the first game, Grant Priess' three-run homer in the fifth gave Texas A&M a 3-2 lead after TU had scored two early runs. The Aggies scored another run in the sixth to take a 4-2 lead into the final inning. TU scared Aggie reliever Perry Swanson by scoring a run to make it 4-3, but he retired the final batter with the bases loaded, earning his sixth save and giving Marvin Keller his third win in four decisions.

In the second game, Billy Cannon led Texas A&M with a triple and a double, while Priess had a two-run triple in the Aggies' big sixth inning. Priess' triple, the Aggies' 25th of the year, set a new team record for triples in a single season, breaking the old record of 24 set in 1971.

The Aggies play the Green Wave again today at 1:00 in Olsen Field.

You'll die trying!

Al Adler, attackman for Texas A&M lacrosse, guards the ball in Sunday's game with the University of Houston. The Aggies won the game 22-10. The team came back Sunday and defeated the Houston Bayou Lacrosse Club 11-0. The Aggies closed out the season with Sunday's victory with an 11-4 overall record, 8-1 in league play.

Men's golf team travels to Georgia

By RITCHIE PRIDDY

The Texas A&M men's golf team will head east today to join some of the best golf schools from around the country to compete in the Southern Intercollegiate Golf Tournament in Athens, Georgia.

Qualifying to represent the Aggies in the tournament are Jones, Richard Cromwell, Danny Briggs, Gary Krueger and Cobb.

"These five have shown their ability very well and I feel that they are the fellows best to represent the school," head coach Bob Ellis said. Briggs has been recovering from a "very severe" sore throat but is expected to compete.

"Danny's real sick, but hopefully he'll be able to play. I really don't want to leave town without him," Ellis said.

Jones has the best tournament scores, averaging 73.25 per tournament while competing in five. Cromwell is next with a 74.2 average through six tournaments. Briggs is third with a 74.4 average through six tournaments, followed by Krueger at 74.8 through four. Cobb, through four tournaments is averaging 75.3.

The Aggies have performed well through nine tournaments this spring, and if they finish with lower score than Centenary this week they will clinch the final berth in the NCAA Intercollegiate championship in Palo Alto, California from this district.

Centenary is in the same district as Texas A&M and both are competing for the final spot in the district for the right to advance to the national tournament. Only three teams from each district around the country qualify for the national tournament. Houston and Texas are already qualified as the top two teams from the 29-team district.

The Aggies practiced Sunday at the Lochinvar Golf Course in Houston, a comparable course to Athens in preparation for the tournament.

"It helps us to prepare for the Southern," Ellis said of the practice courses are similar. The only thing is that it is two hours shorter there and back.

Speaking of the course in Athens, Ellis said that it was designed by one of the best golf architects in the business, Donald Ross, and is very well managed.

"It's a fine course — one of the best. The people are just super most hospitable," he said.
