Martin to appeal suspension

United Press International
NEW YORK — The American League spoke its piece on the latest Billy Martin imbroglio Monday, but this time a court of law may be called in to have the last word.

Martin was suspended for a week and fined $1,000 by the American League Monday for attacking an umpire, but that decision doesn't sit well with Richie Phillips, executive director of the Major League Umpires Association — who is contemplating criminal charges.

"I do not think seven days suspension coupled with a $1,000 fine is a sufficient deterrent to Billy Martin and other managers in the American League," Phillips said. "We can either file a suit against Martin or go through the judiciary end and go to Toronto to seek a criminal complaint. It was a deliberate striking of an individual and the throwing of dirt was an absolutely despicable act."

An A's spokesman said Martin officially will appeal the league decision before today's games.

The suspension stemmed from last Friday night's game at Toronto when Martin was ejected after he bumped homeplate umpire Terry Cooney. Martin then repeatedly kicked and threw dirt at the umpire.

Martin, 53, said the bump was accidental, but Cooney challenged that claim.

"I don't believe that at all," the umpire said.

Martin was suspended indefinitely the next day and AL President Lee MacPhail reviewed film of the incident Monday before officially handing down the suspension and fine.

Martin certainly wasn't in an apologetic mood when he heard Phillips was considering criminal charges.

"I'm not afraid of him and I hope he's watching," said Martin, who will manage the opener of a three-game series in Chicago Tuesday if his appeal is officially filed with the league office. "I was already thrown out of the game before I came out. I understand he (Cooney) was a football player and I only weigh 155 pounds, so what is he afraid of?"

Martin already has served two days of the suspension and since the A's did not play Monday, the club said it wanted to delay filing the appeal to give Martin a third completed day on the suspension.

When the appeal is made, a hearing will be scheduled and the fine and suspension will be put on hold. Martin then will be eligible to manage tonight at Chicago. Until the appeal is filed, Martin may not return to the dugout until June 6 in a home game against Boston.

"We're appealing the suspension and the club is backing him 100 percent," said A's spokesman Mickey Morabito. "Billy feels the penalty was too harsh. He has three days and will appeal the remainder of it."

The decision, with the fine added, was the most severe penalty by MacPhail since he took over the league presidency in 1974.

It was the third time Martin has been suspended in his career.

Intramural registration open through Friday

So you thought that since hot weather, beautiful girls and fewer guys — obvious signs of an Aggie summer — are around campus these days the only competition to be found would be people vying for a revealing glimpse of that gorgeous beauty/beast or chugging whatever it is one cares to chug.

Well, in all actuality, you couldn't be further from the truth.

Sure, there's those opportunities of bodywatching and chugging, but there's also another type of competition — intramurals.

Registration is under way for summer intramurals, which include softball, 3-man volleyball, 3-man basketball, tennis, handball and racquetball, through Friday. Competition begins Monday, June 8th.

Softball, which annually draws more teams than any other sport, is expected to draw over 140 teams. However, the field has been narrowed down to only 112 teams this summer. Teams are signed up on a first come-first serve basis only, so the earlier a team signs up and pays the $5 entry fee the better chance that team has of playing.

Intramurals and recreational facilities are open to all TAMU students, faculty-staff and spouses of each with current Texas A&M IDs. Spouses may purchase a recreation ID for $1 in the Intramural Office in East Kyle.

Indoor facilities include a 25-yard swimming pool, gymnasiums, various multipurpose rooms and 28 handball/racquetball courts. Outside facilities include the Penberthy Intramural

Center, 36 tennis courts (28

ed) soccer, rugby and polo and a 50-meter swimming pool.

Sports equipment is available for free checkout or rental.

Reservations for handball/racquetball courts can be made in the court room in DeWare Fieldhouse or by calling 845-2624.
