Atlanta investigators awaiting crime lab report

United Press International
ATLANTA — Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown said today the task force investigating the deaths of 28 young Atlanta blacks during the last 22 months still is awaiting a final report on analysis of material taken from the home of Wayne Williams.

Brown, in his weekly conference with reporters, avoided using Williams' name, but he said

"We have not yet had a final report from the crime lab. To my knowledge, the work is ongoing. We are depending on them for an analysis."

Dr. Larry Howard, director of the State Crime Lab, said Tuesday that most of the fiber comparison work had been completed.

Brown also denied reports within the last week that there was friction between federal agents and local officers involved in the investigation.

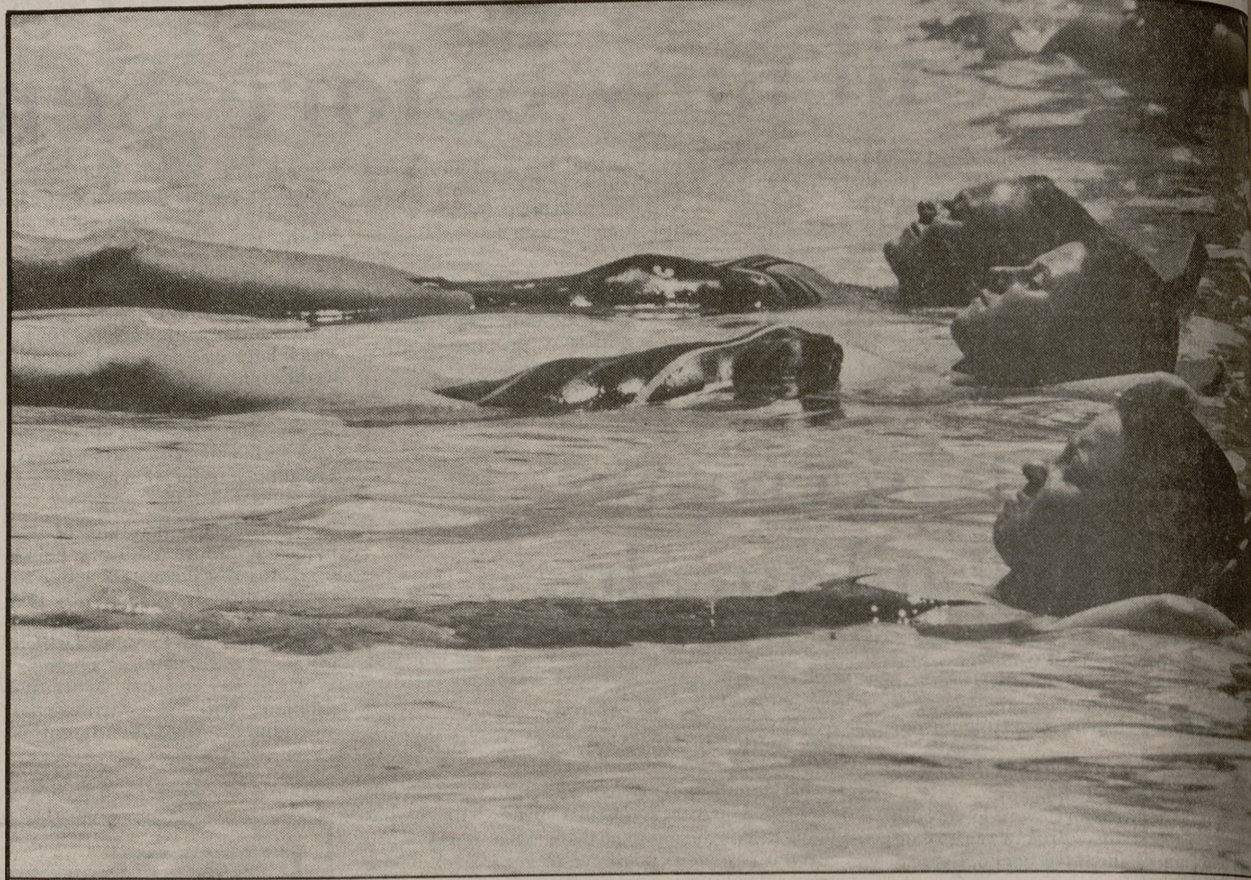

"There is no pressure for any particular agency to solve this crime. There is no competition in that regard," Brown said. He said the investigation was "a model cooperative effort."

"There are no differences between the FBI, the task force and the district attorney," he said. "There are no behind-the-scenes arguments."

Brown said police stationed outside the northwest Atlanta home where Williams lives with his mother and father were present only "for public safety."

He said the extra officers were needed because of increased media coverage.

There has been no indication the fiber comparison work would lead to an arrest in the case.

The lazy life

These three Texas A&M students have found the right way to get a suntan and still stay cool. The inviting water at Wofford Cain Pool on campus was just too much to resist as afternoon temperatures soared into the high 90's.

District judge rules in favor of newspaper in Amarillo libel suit

United Press International
AMARILLO — Dismissal of the former district attorney's libel suit against the Amarillo Globe News vindicates the newspaper's efforts in behalf of the public interest, the paper's general manager believes.

U.S. District Judge Robert Hill in Dallas has granted the newspaper's motion for a summary judgment in the case filed by former District Attorney Tom Curtis, ruling in favor of the newspaper without a full trial.

Globe News General Manager James L. Whyte said Tuesday the newspaper was pleased with Hill's ruling.

"Certainly the court's decision vindicates the position we took in support of the public interest," he said.

"It is neither easy nor pleasant to challenge a powerful elected official. The newspaper and several of us associated with it were subjected to considerable vitriolic criticism over a period of years.

"To have our efforts supported in such a manner, however, makes all of the difficulties more worthwhile. We are grateful to our excellent legal counsel as well as to the court," Whyte said.

Hill gave Curtis 30 days to appeal the ruling handed down last Friday.

In his 20-page opinion, said, "The articles and opinions which Curtis has sued are the least, controversial," the Supreme Court sought to

"Curtis' tenure as district attorney for Potter County was, at the least, controversial," the court said.

"We are extremely pleased with the court's decision," he said, "and particularly our news court terming our news and editorial comment a type of reporting and debate the Supreme Court sought to protect."
