Student leaders, administrators gather at leadership conference

By KATHY O'CONNELL
Battalion Staff
Student leaders at Texas A&M University gathered over the weekend to become acquainted with University administrators and each other.
The annual Fall Leadership Conference, held in Trinidad, proved to be a success said Ken Johnson, student body president. "I think the program was relative to the needs of the student," he said.
"I think one of the benefits of the conference is that all the leaders on campus got together. Usually during the year we're so busy running around we don't have time to talk to each other," Johnson said.
Doug Noah, MSC vice president of development said: "As far as how successful it was, I think it was probably one of the best conferences I've been to of that kind. The planning and scheduling was good. It never got boring."
Noah agreed with Johnson in that the student leaders got to meet with each other. "The atmosphere was real lax," he said. To establish an informal attitude at the conference, Noah said there were a few ice breakers, such as having to memorize everyone's name.

University administrators on a one-to-one basis also was good, Noah said.
Suzanne Becker, adviser to the Fall Leadership Conference said she tried to be unbiased about the success of the conference, but many students and MSC staff complimented her on how successful the conference was.
"James Randolph (associate MSC director) has been to seven conferences and he said this was the best he's ever been to," she said.
Donald L. Wass, president of the William Oncken Company of Texas, Inc., gave the keynote address at the conference. Wass' company is a consulting firm specializing in organization planning and development.

WHERE ARE YOU?
And they heard the sound of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day, and the man and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God among the trees of the garden. Then the Lord God called to the man, and said to him, "where are you?" (Gen. 3:8-9, N.A.S.V.)
Man had disobeyed the Word of God. Instead of eating from the tree of life, man had partaken of that source which God said would result in death — the tree of the knowledge of good and evil (Gen. 2:9, 17). In so doing, man had not merely disobeyed God; he had also taken into his being the very element and nature of sin. Death was the result — spiritually, psychologically, and physically as well. Being indwelt by the essence of sin (Rom. 7:17, 20), man's body became "the flesh of sin" (Rom. 8:3, Gk.). And as Adam's sons and heirs, we also, in him, were corrupted and indwelt by sin (Rom. 5:14, 18, 19).
Adam and Eve had been naked before the fall, and they experienced no shame or fear. But with the fall their conscience was awakened — "and they knew they were naked." Immediately they sought to clothe themselves with fig leaves, and when they heard God, they ran and hid, full of shame and fear. And now, just like Adam and Eve, all their descendants as well are full of shame and fear. Sin produces shame; sin produces fear; and sin causes man to flee from God's presence.
People today try to cover their shame with "fig leaves" of pleasure, wealth, social status, success, drugs, alcohol, all the while rationalizing away the troubling in their conscience. But within, the shame remains. And deep within, the nagging fear — the fear of other people, the fear of insecurity, the fear of rejection, and the fear of death all remain. So man does all he can to clothe himself with "fig leaves" and to hide himself from God's presence, yet the conscience of every man continues to protest. All the efforts he makes to excuse himself avail nothing. The corruption of sin is manifested in every man by this sense of shame and fear.
God, however, did not forsake Adam. He sought after him and called out, "Where are you?" Did the Almighty God not know where Adam was? Surely He knew, but He asked so that Adam would also consider: "Where am I; what have I done; why am I in such a condition?" God wanted man himself to realize where he really was.
God is asking this same question today to every man — "Where are you?" Are you in shame and fear, trying to hide from God's presence?
Jesus did not come into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved (John 3:17). Oh, how strong is His desire to cleanse us! Only when our conscience is cleansed from sin by the blood of Jesus can we be freed from the shame and fear caused by sin. Only then can we be at peace with God and man.
If you have never been cleansed from your sin by the blood of Jesus, you can be right now. You can be freed from sin's condemnation by receiving Jesus Christ. Simply open yourself in prayer to receive the cleansing from all sin and to take Christ into you as your new life.
"Lord Jesus, I ask You to wash me from my sins in Your precious blood. Lord Jesus, come into me and fill me with Yourself as life."
"There is therefore now no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus" (Rom. 8:1).
