AURORA, Mo. — A sheriff Thursday ordered a house-to-house search of a southeast Missouri town for three dangerous and heavily armed escaped convicts.

"One thing we're going on is that no vehicles in the area have been stolen and there have been no reports of burglaries," Lawrence County Sheriff Dave Tatum said at a news conference.

"I think we have to continue with the search until we can be told that they are out of the area, until we have evidence they are somewhere else."

About 80 officers would be involved in checking 800 residences in Marionville, Tatum said.

The two convicted killers and a rapist are the last of seven inmates who escaped the Kansas State Penitentiary at Lansing Sunday. They have thus far managed to elude roadblocks, door-to-door checks, bloodhounds and law enforcement officers.

"We're almost sure they're holed up somewhere — possibly with a hostage," Highway Patrol

Capt. Lee Thompson said Wednesday.

A search for the three fugitives — called "desperate enough to do anything" by one officer — led to the small southwest Missouri town of Pierce City late Wednesday when area residents told officers they had spotted at least two of the convicts.

Officers carrying semi-automatic rifles and sawed off shotguns converged on the sleepy community by the dozens only to end the search emptyhanded five hours later.

A deputy said the convicts — Everett Cameron, Robert Bentley and John Kitchell — were reported armed with a handgun, shotgun and possibly two other weapons.

Some officers feared the fugitives might be headed out of the state along railroad tracks or abandoned track beds.

The three convicts, holding Grace Furlow, 52, as a hostage, exchanged gunfire with police at a roadblock shortly before midnight Tuesday. They then released Mrs. Furlow, wrecked her car and fled on foot.

They and four other prisoners escaped by convincing a tower guard to let one of them, dressed in a stolen guard uniform, into the tower. The others were recaptured, three Sunday and the fourth on Tuesday.

Man with memory loss falls in love with wife once again

United Press International
EVANSTON, Ill. — His memory ended where their first date began but Janet Krusinski never quit trying to win back her husband's love.

Larry Krusinski, 29, of Vernon Hills, Ill., lost his memory after being injured in a car accident last year. For 10 days, he was in a coma. When he awakened, he was paralyzed and could not remember being married for three years to Janet.

"He remembered his parents and the house he lived in," Mrs. Krusinski said Wednesday. "He started remembering his own family and even some of my family. He remembered the things that had happened to him in college.

"But his memory seemed to end with our first date."

She showed her husband pictures from their wedding and just kept "telling him I loved him."

"He looked at photographs of us together like he was surprised, like it was all something new he had never seen before," she said.

"One day he was telling me about his wife. He told me, 'All she wants me to do is walk, walk, walk.'"

"And I said, 'Who is your wife?' And he said, 'I don't know, but when I find her, I'm going to punch her in the nose."

"And I said, 'What is your wife's name?' And he said, 'Janet, but she never comes to see me.' And I told him, 'I'm Janet. I'm your wife, and I'm here.'"

Throughout the ordeal, Mrs. Krusinski remained undaunted, determined to win back the love of her husband.

"I came to visit him all the time and talked to him and brought him pizzas even though he did not know who I was," she said. "He started liking me."

"Yes, I do think he fell in love with me all over again. He doesn't remember that he ever loved me before."

Krusinski's paralysis is slowly dissipating, as is his amnesia. He is expected to be released from the hospital Saturday.

"I hope once he is home the two of us together will be able to fill in the gaps," said Mrs. Krusinski, a beautician. "It hasn't been the easiest thing in the world and I know it still won't be easy."

"I've set aside a few of my dreams for a while, but it doesn't matter because I love him. Nothing is hard when someone loves you back."

Plot to kill shah's sister charged

United Press International
LOS ANGELES — An Iranian reportedly deeply involved in Iranian politics has been arrested on charges he offered an undercover sheriff's deputy $250,000 to assassinate a sister of the late shah of Iran.

Mohammad Ali Alikhani, 45, who owns a Westlake Village stereo store, was booked Wednesday on two-count felony complaint filed by the district attorney's office.

The indictment alleged he solicited the murder of Ashraf Pahlavi, who has residences in Santa Barbara, Calif., and New York.

Deputy District Attorney Robert Shirn said the plan, which was foiled before there was any danger to Princess Ashraf, was hatched last spring when Alikhani disclosed the murder-for-hire plan to a business acquaintance.

Shirn said the business acquaintance, who was not identified, told authorities about the plot and agreed to work with police as an informant.

Friends sometimes question your taste in movies. But they'll see them with you anyway.

It sounded fantastic in the newspaper. But only to you. Still, you had to see it, and with a little arm-twisting your friends agreed to see it too.

You've already heard a barrage of jokes about your taste in movies since the curtain came down. And, knowing your friends, it'll go on for weeks.

So, to make it up to them, and show them your taste isn't bad in everything, you do something a little special. Tonight, let it be Löwenbräu.

Löwenbräu. Here's to good friends.
