Fighters prepare for richest bout

LAS VEGAS — The grueling workouts have ended for Sugar Ray Leonard and Thomas Hearns and the two fighters have sought privacy to make mental preparatons for Wednesday night's welterweight uni-

Hearns, the unbeaten World Boxing Association champion who has stopped 30-of-32 opponents, didn't work out at all Sunday. He sparred five brisk rounds Saturday with Dujum Johnson, the top-ranked junior welterweight contendar in the world, hurting him with crunching

Leonard, the WBC champion with a 31-1 record, worked lightly on the speed bag and jumped rope Sunday.

With three days left before the fight — the richest in the history of boxing with Leonard guaranteed $8 million and Hearns guaranteed $5 million — things could get boring around the camps at Caesars

But they won't, not as long as Angelo Dundee and Emanuel Steward

'Janks (trainer Janks Morton) and I have the best fighter," Dundee, Leonard's manager said at Sunday's news conference. "People haven't seen how good Sugar Ray Leonard can be. When the bell rings, people will see how great a fighter Sugar Ray Leonard is. What he's going to do to Thomas Hearns is a shame. When Ray knocks out Thomas in the ninth or 10th round, I'll be the first to console Emanuel Steward

Pitcher Lisa Martinez came to Texas A&M University knowing

Battalion Staff
With veteran pitchers Lori Stoll and Shan McDonald returning for that she would have more com- their junior years after leading the petition than she'd ever had in her

Texas A&M women's softball team to third-and fourth-place finishes in the AIAW College World Series the past two years, it seemed the freshman would find it difficult becoming a starter.

However, Martinez played a major role in this weekend's Texas A&M Invitational tournament, pitching the Aggies to three of their five wins in the two-day event and defeating Sam Houston State University 1-0 Saturday night to give Texas A&M the championship. She has overcome nervousness, pressure and low-scoring games to pick up four victories during the first week of the Aggies' 1981-82 season.

Texas A&M's record stands at 7-1 after last week's 11-0, 2-1 double-header sweep of Baylor in Waco, and the Aggies' five victories in the tourney.

The Aggies began the tournament Friday afternoon by losing 2-0 to the University of Texas at Arlington, but they rebounded to defeat Baylor 7-3 Friday night, with Martinez pitching a threehitter and striking out 15.

The Aggies didn't allow the first-game loss to UTA to dampen their spirits, as they won all four of their games Saturday. McDonald won the first game 1-0 over Texas Tech, giving up four hits and pitching a complete game.

In Texas A&M's second game Saturday, Martinez pitched a no-hitter against St. Mary's University, striking out 12 on her way to the victory. McDonald followed with a 8-0 defeat of Texas Weslayan College, raising her record to 3-1. Again, McDonald proved to be nearly untouchable as she gave up only three hits in seven

While the Aggies relied on their pitching in their victories, SHSU used superior hitting to sweep undefeated through its first five tourney games, including a 5-0 victory over St. Mary's, a 7-0 win over Texas Tech and a 9-2 win over

The tension of the 14-inning championship game would've been enough to send any pitcher to an early shower, but her performances during the first week of the season showed that Martinez remains calm in pressure-filled

"I'm just happy to be playing. I knew when I got here that I was going to have to work hard with the pitchers they have here," the freshman from Bethany, Okla.,

Martinez gave up three hit struck out 11, while the Aggi several scoring opportunit away during the regulation innings. The Aggies finally the game in the 14th inning ing Martinez her fourth win many starts. Carrie Austgen led off the ning with a foul-out, and M Resendez followed with a sing rightfield. Martinez came to plate, squared around to but fooled everyone by swi away, sending a single over drawn-in third baseman's he Patti Holthaus sacrificed runners to second and t bringing freshman designate ter Josie Carter to the plate ter drove a single between stop and third base, scoring sendez from third and gwing Aggies a 1-0 win and the out championship trophy. After scoring the winning Resendez said the Aggies d get any breaks early in the when they had scoring opp nites. However, she said knew it would break (open cause we had more chance they did."

This weekend, Texas A takes its 7-1 record to Arlingto the UTA Invitational Tou ment. Stoll, who has been to in Japan with the American ball Association's national will join the Aggies this week ing them a strong three pitching rotation.
