Dean of music named

HOUSTON — The vice president of Boston's New England Conservatory of Music has been appointed Dean of Rice University's Shepherd School of Music.

Larry James Livingston, 39, is expected to assume his new position at Rice Jan. 1, 1982. He is a native of Pontiac, Mich., and studied music at the University of Michigan.

Livingston, who was the conductor at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb until 1977, has taught virtually all of a music curriculum, including theory, history, literature and conducting as well as all the woodwind instruments. He has professionally played the clarinet, flute and saxophone.

Astronaut injured

HOUSTON — Astronaut Ronald E. McNair was seriously hurt in an automobile accident on Interstate 45 in Houston, a Johnson Space Center spokesman said.

McNair was taken to Southeast Memorial hospital in Houston after the Sunday accident and placed in intensive care. He subsequently was moved to the orthopedic unit where he was listed in stable condition Monday, officials said.

McNair was among 35 astronauts chosen by NASA in January 1978 and is eligible to perform as a mission specialist on future Space Shuttle flights.

Redistricting lawsuit

TYLER — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has named a three-judge panel to hear a lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the congressional redistricting plan approved by the state legislature.

The lawsuit was filed last Thursday in the court of U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice by attorney Leighton Cornett on behalf of the Rev. A.M. Seamon, a black minister from Paris.

Named Monday to the panel by Chief Justice John C. Godbold of the 5th Circuit were Justice, U.S. Circuit Court Judge Sam D. Johnson of Austin and U.S. District Judge Robert M. Parker of Beaumont.

The suit claims the new redistricting plan is "patently unconstitutional" because it would dilute the voting strength of minorities in Texas, especially blacks and Mexican-Americans. The lawsuit asked Justice to consider the petition as a class action case on behalf of all minority citizens in the state.

Fire blamed on cord

LUBBOCK — A faulty extension cord has been judged the cause of a fire that began in the offices of Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, and caused about $100,000 in damages to Lubbock's downtown Court Place office building.

Officials Monday said the cord was left plugged into the wall. Firefighters fought the blaze for about 90 minutes before bringing it under control.

Although fire damage was confined mostly to Sen. Tower's seventh floor office, officials said other offices on the floor suffered heavy water and smoke damage. Traces of smoke were detected throughout the building.

One fireman was overcome by smoke during the early morning blaze but returned to duty after he was given oxygen. No other injuries were reported.

Tow-truck driver charged

HOUSTON — The driver of a tow truck which patrolled an apartment complex for illegally parked cars was charged with a criminal misdemeanor for hauling off a car parked in an unmarked zone.

Police Monday said the charge, which carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail and $1,000 fine, was the first ever brought against a tow-truck driver in the city.

Carol Cataldo went to police after her car was towed by a driver hired by the Scottwood Apartments, where she said she lived. She showed them pictures of the space where she had parked Saturday night. It had no markings prohibiting parking, police officer Clarence Pietsch said. She had paid $53 to reclaim her auto from Airport Auto Parts.

Jeffery Wayne Story, a wrecker for Quality Wreckers, was charged with the Class B misdemeanor. He told police he towed the car because it was in a fire zone.
