Aggies to test Bulldogs' bite

By RITCHIE PRIDDY

Sports Editor
The Louisiana Tech Bulldogs come calling on the Texas Aggies Saturday night in what promises to be an exciting 1981 home opener.

Tech is coming off an impressive showing against Baylor last week and could pose problems for the Aggies. The Bulldogs gave Baylor all it could handle before dropping a 28-21 decision to the Bears. Quarterback Matt Dunigan passed for over 300 yards, connecting on 30-of-53 passes against the Bears' secondary, and Aggie Head Coach Tom Wilson is aware of Tech's passing potential.

"Just looking at the films they are a very competitive, well-coached team. They threw the ball well, their quarterback is quick and drops back deep in the pocket. He doesn't throw the ball in a crowd. He has a very strong arm — very impressive."

Through three games Dunigan has thrown for 614 yards on 52-of-94 passes and has been intercepted twice.

The success of the Bulldog offense depends upon the type of game Dunigan has, but by no means is it a one-man team.

Their offensive line is not as big as that of Boston College but is very quick off the ball. However, the line doesn't have much depth. The average size is about 6-2, 230, while the Texas A&M defensive line averages about 6-4, 245 — something second-year Tech coach Billy Brewer is aware of.

"Defensively, the Aggies are very aggressive and extremely drilled in the fundamentals of football. I'm sure they will be giving us problems all day."

Brewer said the Bulldogs will run out of the wishbone in search of some consistent running. The Bulldogs are averaging 111 yards per game on the ground and 225 through the air out of a pro-set backfield.

The leading ground-gainer is Carlton Jacobs, a 5-foot-9, 183 junior running back who has carried the ball 36 times for 140 yards, a 46.7 yard-per-game average.

Ronnie Williams, at 5-foot-11, 173, is the second leading ground gainer with 95 yards on 26 carries for a 29 yard-per-game average. The others don't come close to that, but they will test the Aggie defense in trying to establish a running game.

The Bulldogs bring several talented receivers with them. Split end Leland Padgett has caught 13 passes for 165 yards and one touchdown. Flanker Austin Kattenbraker has caught six passes for 76 yards. Wilson said that both receivers have excellent speed and run very disciplined routes.

Two favorite targets for Dunigan are running backs Jacobs and Williams, and between them they have caught 12 passes and scored one touchdown. Jacobs has caught six passes for 129 yards and Williams six passes for 58 yards.

Defensively, the Bulldogs will be hard-pressed to stop the Aggie running duo of Johnny Hector and Earnest Jackson. Through two games they have combined for 404 yards on the ground. Jackson is the leading ballcarrier with 223 yards on 41 carries for a 111.5 yard-per-game average. Hector has rushed 28 times for 181 yards and a 90.5 yard-per-game average.

"The only way I can see that we can stop them is by bringing a 30-30 and shooting them at the line of scrimmage," Brewer said of the duo.

The Aggies are averaging 242.5 yards per game on the ground and 130 yards through the air for an average of 372.5 yards per game in total offense.

Brewer said: "Their offensive line averages about 15 to 20 pounds heavier and two inches taller than Baylor's, which is not a very good omen for us."

"They come off the ball extremely well, which means that we'll have to play awful hard on every down to stay competitive," Brewer said.

Bulldog opponents have averaged 180 yards on the ground and 116 through the three games.

Wilson said the Aggies have priority in facing the Bulldogs to establish a strong inside line in the game and then, perhaps, to beat the offense.

"Their defensive line is big but very quick, and we've lined — one that is not to beat themselves."

"If we do a good job on the ball we can move it. They are a good football team, and I don't see any weaknesses," he added.

The Aggies are in good luck going into the game, although several reserve players were practicing this week.

David Bandy will handle the snapping chores from as deep snapper Jim DeLoe, trouble getting the ball to the line during the Aggies' last game at Texas Tech.

Wilson said his team will play, adding that some athletes are down after the game.

"They are very determined. Nobody is down on them. We know we should have a good game."

Wilson added that a week is very important program as it heads into "action" next week at Texas Tech.

"We're not looking at Louisiana Tech, though," Brewer said. "We're anxious to play in Kyle."

"We're certainly looking forward to playing the Aggies. I've heard of the great tradition of the student body they have."

Ag tennis team member travel to prestigious meet

By RICK STOLLE

While most of the Texas A&M tennis team prepares for tournament play, two members of the squad will travel thousands of miles to compete in tournaments not related to Texas A&M tennis.

Liliana Fernandez will leave today for Curacao in the Caribbean to compete in an international invitational tournament.

She was invited to the tournament because she is the top tennis player among women in her native Colombia.

Mike Pazourek also leaves today to compete in the Northwest Sectionals championship. Pazourek is the top-ranked player in the Northwest section of the country.

He has won nine of 14 tournaments since January, as well as the Northwestern Grand Prix of Tennis.

"I hope to be ranked number one," he said. "But the coaches in the area make the rankings and I haven't been there since August."

However, he had felt that the coaches would rank him at the top. He won the Grand Prix by approximately 600 points, and totaled over 1,500 points by the end of the event.

Fernandez said: "I have never played against such good competition before. There will be a lot of pros and older, more experienced players there."

The 19-year-old said she and her Colombian partner Gloria Escobar, also 19, will be two of the youngest players at the tournament.

The tournament invited the top two players from many countries in South America, Europe and the Caribbean. She said many of the athletes are the best their countries can offer.

Fernandez will compete in both the singles and doubles competition, and will be paired with Escobar in doubles.

Aggie tennis coach David Kent said he is happy for both of these athletes.

"It is a great honor for the two of them to be selected for these tournaments," he said.

"Lili is a great person on the court. She can hit hard, and for someone who is only 105 pounds, that is a feat."

Kent went on to say he is with the experience she has at the tournament. Fernandez come back a better tennis player after competing at the event, he predicted.

"Mike (Pazourek) has a lot of potential and is probably a freshman we've never seen before."

Kent said all Pazourek's college experience, which he got at the tournament.

"I am very interested in how they progress in the tournaments," Kent said, "but less of how far they go, and more of how they play."
