Top Ten

Almost everyone has a first round of tests coming up this week. First tests mean first attacks of the munchies.

So in case you've been living on lettuce and macaroni and cheese and have forgotten about all the truly delectable junk foods, the Focus staff has compiled a list of the goodies to refresh your memory.

- 1 — Pizza — Only truly classified as junk food if it rivals the cardboard box it arrived in for tenderness. The more bizarre ingredients, the better.
- 2 — Popcorn — A classic if drenched in melted butter, with mozzarella cheese sprinkled on top. Be sure you eat the unpopped kernels so you can pick them out of your teeth later.
- 3 — M&M's (plain and peanut) — A little chocolate never hurt anyone. Conduct a taste test of which color tastes best.
- 4 — Bluebell ice cream — Maybe your favorite flavor varies from week to week, but there's nothing better (unless it's Hagan-Daaz).
- 5 — Peanuts — In the shell is best; they leave a bigger mess and you can pretend you're a circus elephant.
- 6 — Chips and dips — To add a sense of adventure to the commonplace, try fitting a whole Tostito past your lips or hold a chip full of dip upside down when stuffing it in your mouth.
- 7 — Twinkies — Be a good "hostess" and serve your study group cream-filled calories.
- 8 — Whoppers, Big Macs, Jumbo Jacks, Whataburgers and Cow Pies — need we say more? Keep the cattlemen in business.
- 9 — Oreos — The classic cookie because it takes two steps to eat it. Try eating the cookie before the filling.
- 10 — Candy — Sourballs, chocolate bars, licorice, caramels, taffy. Anything to give you a sugar rush, rot your teeth and keep you awake at 3 a.m.
