Egypt's stability, buy r loyalty predicted

United Press International
DALLAS — Defense Secretary

Caspar Weinberger said the Reagan administration is confident the Egyptian government will not turn away from its Western allies in the wake of Anwar Sadat's assassination, and warned of the need for continued vigilance against Soviet militarism.

There will be no instability (in Egypt) and the able leadership of that country will demonstrate a continuance of the policies and strengths of the Sadat era," Wein-berger told before the Dallas League Navy County

The Pentagon chief said Sadat's death has added to the "terrible equation" of instability in the Third World and the increasing Soviet military power that threatens the West.

Egypt is "a country whose stability and friendship is vital to the United States," he said. Sadat had said he would provide Egyptian based facilities to U.S. forces in the event of a crisis in the Middle East. However, t United States may have to reneg tiate such access rights with the new leadership once it comest power. Sadat had refused to sp an agreement with Washington

The United States plans to de velop Ras Banas, an outpost a of the Egypt's Red Sea coastline, for us as a staging area for the Rapid D ployment Force. The cost of the offered developement is an estimate $100 million.

The secretary said the source of instability and the Soviet poweresponsible for the invasion of Afghanistan, the fall of the shahd Iran and the threatened Sovietin tervention in Poland have "grow considerably" in the last year.

"The threat today is not les than what it was a year ago but,... measured by the Soviets' creased preponderance in arms, greater," he said, "and now we have to add to this terrible equipple of the tion the assassination of a great sed by and courageous leader of Egypt nessmo

Expenses block busing appeal

United Press International ALEXANDRIA, La. — The families of the "Buckeye Three" attendance zone was illegally at three white girls who battled a federal desegregation order to remain at their local school — have been forced to abandon their legal fight by a lack of money.

The girls this spring asked the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to overturn a lower court decision declaring illegal a custody transfer designed to keep them in Buckeye High School. The court refused and Wednesday was the deadline for the families to appeal that deci-

The parents of Lynda McNeal, Ramona Carbo and Michele Laborde said they no longer could afford to wage a legal battle against the decision by U.S. District Judge Nauman Scott. Scott said the plan to transfer
