Tennis team to host second three-way tourney of year

By RICK STOLLE

Going into the second Texas A&M three-way tournament this fall, the Texas A&M tennis team is looking to play some tough tennis as Southwest Texas State University and Louisiana Tech come to A&M to challenge the Aggies.

"We will be out to play," said Aggie tennis coach David Kent. "We can use the experience against some tough competition."

Kent said Southwest was the defending NCAA Division I national champions and that Louisiana Tech always has a good team.

"Southwest Texas does not have as strong a team as they had last year," the coach said. "But I think they will be out there to get after us."

He said he was expecting both teams to play well against A&M.

"I don't know what it is," Kent said, "but they all seem to play harder against the Aggies."

The tournament begins today at the Omar Smith Tennis Center on the campus of Texas A&M near the campus police station with the first round of singles at 1 p.m. The second round is scheduled for 3:30 this afternoon.

Kent said he was concerned with the general health of his team. Brian Joelson has had a bad cold all week and Kent said that might effect his play. And he has also been looking at a number of other players who have been slowed by colds and the flu.

"BJ's cold has hurt him more than the others,"

Kent said. "He has really had a rough fall so far. Brian hasn't had as much work as everybody else because he went to Portland for a week to watch the Davis Cup semifinals."

In the first round, Aggies Kimmo Alkio, Mike Pazourek and Joelson have byes. Chuck Nunn of Southwest also has a bye. All three are seeded in the tournament.

Lauro Gonzalez of A&M will play Tommy Clay of Tech, Ron Kowal will go against Sam Elliot of Southwest, Genaro Fernandez will play Russ Angell of Southwest, Arnold Kettmacker will go against David Attong of Tech, Greg Hill will battle Roger Consalves of Tech and Van Barry goes against Louise Stevens of Southwest in first round singles action.

The doubles get under way Saturday morning at 10:30.

Aggie teams Joelson-Pazourek and Alkio-Barry have received byes in the first round. Hill-Kowal will go against Angell-Bramiatt of Southwest and Fernandez-Kettmacker will play an independent team of Clay-Stevens.

"We each had an odd player," said Kent. "So I put the two from Southwest and Tech together and got a graduate student to play with our odd man." The second independent team is made of of Gonzalea and graduate student Dwight Edwards.

The finals of the tournament will be Sunday. Singles are scheduled to be at 9 a.m. with the doubles at 1:30 p.m.

Volleyball team hosts tourney

By CAYE DENLEY

The Aggie volleyball team will kick off the Texas A&M Tournament today against Lamar University, a team the women defeated for the third time this season Wednesday night in C. Rollie White Coliseum.

Texas A&M outlasted Lamar, 9-15, 15-9, 15-8, 13-15, 15-4, in what senior hitter Wendy Wilson hopes will be a preview of the noon matchup with the Cardinals.

"They've never beaten us," Wilson said. "We scrimmaged them once and played matches against them three times, and we won all three."

After the Lamar match, the Aggies will face Louisiana State University at 4:30 p.m. Texas A&M defeated LSU last weekend in the University of Illinois Tournament to win third place.

The University of Houston will take on the Aggies for the first time this season at 8 p.m. in G. Rollie White, and the University of Texas at Arlington will try to add another notch to its 1-0 season record against the Aggies at 11 a.m. Saturday.

The consolation round to decide the third- and fourth-place teams will be at 3 p.m. Saturday, with the finals round slated for 6 p.m.
