Audubon films to start Monday C

By ELI JONES

Battalion Reporter Bryan-College Station chapter of the National Audubon Society is sponsoring a wildlife film series this fall at the Brazos

The series begins Monday at 7:30 p.m. with Thomas Sterling's 'Superior-Land of the Woodland Drummer Sterling, a graduate of the School of Natural Resources at the University of Michigan, follows the wolf, loon, grouse and other wildlife creatures through four seasons of survival. "It's an enjoyable and learning experience for any age child or adult," Dale Bode, Brazos Valley Museum director, said. "What is so unique to the Audubon films is that the producer is there narrating, telling what happened behind the scenes, and people can actually ask him questions about anything pertaining to the film.

"The Audubon Film Series is a viable alternative to the movie industry

"There is a common misconception about the Audubon films that needs to be cleared up. People think that 'Audubon' means birds — these are not just bird films.
They include wildlife and plants The film series, which Bode calls a nature experience, will continue with a feature on Canadian wildlife. John Wilson's "Wild Canada: Coast and Coast" will be
