University Press to be discussed

Senate meets tonight at 8:15

The Student Senate will consider a bill tonight that recommends finding an alternative location for the proposed University Press building. Last semester, the University System Board of Regents proposed Duncan Field as the site of the building. The Student Senate will meet at 8:15 p.m. in 206 Harrington. The Senate also is expected to consider a bill that approves buying a computer for Student Government use.

Two new bills also will be introduced tonight.

The Zachry Parking Lot Bill recommends that 60 spaces in Parking Annex 51 be changed from staff parking to student parking.

The bill says more than 40 percent of the spaces in the parking lot are not being used by the cars for which they've been designated. And parking area lots should be distributed proportionally between faculty and students in order to maximize parking, the bill says.

The Campus Canvass Policy

Bill recommends a committee be formed to review the manner in which student senators are conducting campus canvasses. The canvasses are student surveys on several issues facing Student Government.

Jeff Anthony, speaker of the Student Senate, said the bill is intended to check the effectiveness of senators when conducting the surveys. This is to ensure student opinions are being heard, he said.

Animal science major killed in auto accident

An automobile accident that killed Texas A&M student David Wayne Badgett is still being investigated, Chester Smith, patrolman for Bryan Police Department, said.

Badgett was thrown from the 1975 Chevy pickup in which he and two friends were riding. The pickup went into a ditch and rolled several times on FM 2818 around 1 a.m. Sunday, as the men returned home from a dance. Badgett died at 6:47 p.m. from injuries received in the accident.

Curtis William Crittendon of White Oak is in St. Joseph's Hospital with a broken jaw and other facial injuries.

The driver, Larry Andrew Stewart, also a Texas A&M student, was treated and released. According to the police report the men were south bound on FM 2818 when they lost control, and the pickup rolled over several times before coming to a stop in the north-bound lane.

Badgett, an animal science major, had transferred this fall to Texas A&M from Kilgore College. Services were held at 10 a.m. today in Winters, and Silver Taps will be held in December.

17 freshmen get Ross scholarships

Seventeen freshmen in the Texas A&M University Corps of Cadets have been selected to receive 1981-82 Sul Ross Scholarships.

The scholarships — available only to Corps members — are awarded on the basis of financial need and high school record. Each student awarded a scholarship will receive $500 each semester of his freshman and sophomore years.

Receiving scholarships this year:

Tobey S. Elliott, a biomedical science major from Carrollton; John S. Green, a business major from Livingston;

Michael L. Hicks, a chemical engineering major from Garland; Mark M. House, a civil engineering major from Dallas;

Quinn A. Izard, a range science major from Fredericksburg;

Jeffrey B. Jetton, a computer science major from Richardson;

John B. Jones, an aerospace engineering from Mineral Wells; Robert J. Klein Jr., a computer science major from Bedford;

Jesus E. Mariel, a general studies major from Hidalgo;

Mitchell P. Martin, a mechanical engineering major from Albuquerque, N.M.;

Russell O. McGee, an aerospace engineering major from Olney;

Norita N. Miller, a general studies major from Abingdon, Ill.;

Dennis S. O'Grady, an aerospace engineering major from Galveston;

David D. Smith Jr., a history major from Travis;

Tracy M. Villareal, an electrical engineering major from Corpus Christi;

Phyllis R. Waddle, an accounting major from Colorado City; and David C. Waugh, an industrial education major from Norfolk, Mass.

Vandiver to speak to Class of '83

The Class of '83 will meet Thursday to hear Texas A&M University President Dr. Frank E. Vandiver discuss his views on University policy.

Class President Mike Lawshe said the Class of '83 is the first student organization to invite Vandiver to speak.

Lawshe said the class also will discuss its class gift. He said a committee has solicited suggestions for a gift from the class.

The committee will select five suggestions, and class members will vote on those suggestions. The class has already received some suggestions: a fountain underneath the scoreboard in Kyle Field, a large clock similar to London's Big Ben and various ideas for statues.

The meeting will be held in 310 Rudder Tower at 7:30 p.m.
