Raiders of the Lost Ark: It looks like this movie will be here forever. But that's o.k., because it's worth seeing again and again. Rated PG.

Time Bandits: Time Bandits are six small creatures who are capable of intercosmic travel yet unable to tie their own shoelaces. Starring a zany cast of characters including Shelly Duvall, Sean Connery, Ian Holm, the adventure fantasy film was directed by Terry Gilliam (Monty Python fans rejoice!). George Harrison provides the musical score. Rated PG.

Meatballs: Bill Murray stars as a summer camp counselor among a bunch of misfits. Basically it's one of the crude-humor-type films where the characters have all the fun which we pay to see. Rated R. Midnight Friday and Saturday.

Halloween II: The new and improved story of a murderer loose on Halloween. Hiding behind an eerie white mask, the deranged killer stalks sweet young high school students. Maybe he was deprived treats as a child and resorted to tricks. Features several disgustingly gruesome murders. You may never eat apples again. Rated R.

Only When I Laugh: A Neil Simon comedy. Marsha Mason plays a woman stumbling into a new life as a recently de-toxified alcoholic. She not only takes responsibility for her 17-year-old daughter (Kristy McNichol) but is chosen for the lead in a play an ex-boyfriend wrote based upon their relationship. With James Coco and Joan Hackett. Directed by Glenn Jordan. Rated R.

For Your Eyes Only: Roger Moore as 007 (who else). This one's better than a lot of the recent 007 films, but it's still for die-hard Bond fans. Rated PG. Midnight Friday and Saturday.

A Clockwork Orange: Malcolm McDowell, Patrick Magee. Alex is a young gangster with a taste for classical music. When he finally gets caught, he volunteers for some unusual therapy, trying to be "cured." Rated R. Thursday at 7:30 and 10 p.m. in Rudder Theater.

Any Which Way You Can: In this sequel to "Every Which Way But Loose," bare-knuckle fight champ Clint Eastwood again pursues wayward country singer Sondra Locke. Clyde the orangutan, and the foul-mouthed nagging Ma Boggs all get involved when the slow-witted Philo takes on the Kingpin bareknuckler. Rated PG. Friday and Saturday at 7:30 and 9:45 p.m., Rudder Theater.

Shogun Assassin: This film is considered a children's film in its native Japan, but beware! A samurai warrior is ready to kill anyone who crosses his path of vengeance. Rated R. Saturday at midnight in Rudder Theater.

Melvin and Howard: A warm, witty and vibrantly free-wheeling American folk tale about a hopeless man who, after picking up half-dead billionaire Howard Hughes in the desert, becomes heir to $156 million, purportedly left to him by Hughes in the much-publicized "Mormon Will." Rated R. Sunday at 7:30 in Rudder Theater.

Loulou: Loulou is truly a romantic film rather than a sexual one, more so than in the haunting final image of its two lovers lurching away from the camera, still together, for better or for worse. Director Maurice Pialat deals with sexual stereotypes in order to turn them on their heads; he neither floats the spectre of guilt and moralism over Nelly and Loulou's frankly carnal affair, nor does he soft-pedal the difficulties of such an arrangement. (Unrated) Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Rudder Theater.

Endless Love: Endless lust. This is the summer's teenage make-out movie starring the ever-popular teen queen herself, Brooksie Shields, as Jade, and Martin Hewitt as her teen lover David. David is so in love with Jade he burns her house down. (Now that's true love.) This one is full of unintentional laughs, and mostly it's endless. Brooksie was better in jeans. Rated R.

Arthur: Dudley Moore plays a millionaire playboy (Arthur) whose life has been one long, usually drunken, spree until he falls for a nobody (Liza Minnelli) from Queens. John Gielgud as Arthur's salty-tongued valet and best friend just about steals the show. Theme song by Christopher Cross. Rated PG.

Used Cars: A screwball salute to the wheeler-dealers who keep America's clunkers on the road. This comedy follows an all-out battle for business between two feuding used car dealers who try to sell these lemons any way they can. Starring Kurt Russell and Jack Warden. Rated R. Midnight.

Ladies and Gentlemen: The Rolling Stones: Need more be said? This is probably a videotape of the concert in Houston — No? Well then PRETEND it's the video-tape of the Houston concert and then you can tell your friends you saw the concert. Don't go to this film on drugs — there are enough in the film already. Rated PG. Midnight feature.
