Soccer squads play Saturday

FRANK L. CHRISTLIEB

Battalion Staff
Both Texas A&M University and Rice University teams host tough opponents this weekend, with the men's team playing its final match of the season. The women's team plays its last match of the season before traveling to Chapel Hill, N.C. for the national tournament.
Coach Telmo Franco and the men's team host Rice University on Friday at noon in an important season-ending match. The 10th-ranked women's team, coached by Butts, takes an 11-0 record in a contest with Sam Houston State University at 10 a.m. Saturday.
To clinch second place in the Southwest Conference Soccer League, the men's team must win a match with the Owls. The Aggies have compiled a 6-4-3 record and a 3-0-3 mark in SWCSL, while Southern Methodist University, which has clinched the league title, has tied 1-1 two weeks ago. Franco said his team, which has starting fullback Scott Hummer because of a knee injury, is looking for a tough match with the full force.

responsibility and is ready to play. We tied Rice last year in Houston, and since we're playing here, we should win.

"We know their style — they have an English style, where they use long passes. We play a game with more short passes, a combination of South American and European styles."

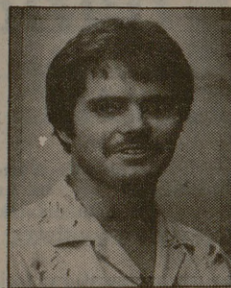

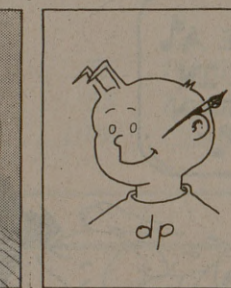

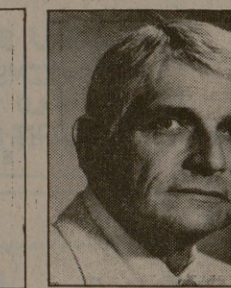

Butts said his women's team will face a talented squad when the Aggies face the Bearcats Saturday.

"It's going to be a very physical match, and we're expecting tougher competition, except for (the University of) Texas, than we've faced this year," Butts said.

Butts' team will enter next week's national tourney as the number 10 seed.
