Going for a steal

Texas A&M's Reggie Roberts attempts to steal the ball from St. Edward's guard Jerry Farias, as forward Roy Jones (44) works with the Aggies' man-to-man defensive coverage. Texas A&M defeated the Hilltoppers 104-57 Monday night in G.

Rollie White Coliseum. The Aggies will try to raise their record to 2-0 when they play 3-1 Sam Houston State tonight at 7:30 in the coliseum.

CSU board interviews SWC assistants for job

United Press International FORT COLLINS, Colo. — Two Southwest Conference assistant coaches are leading candidates for the head football coaching job at Colorado State University.

Leon Fuller, the University of Texas' defensive coordinator for five years, has appeared before a screening committee selecting the team's new coach, while Steve Sidwell, defensive coordinator at Southern Methodist University was the third candidate to be interviewed for the job.

Fuller, 43, said he was the first to appear before the nine-member committee. Sidwell, a 37-year-old native of Denver, was in Fort Collins Wednesday as the effort to find a replacement for Sark Arslanian continued. Arslanian was fired midway through the 1981 season, which the Rams ended with a 0-12 record.

Dr. Bernard Jones, chairman of the nine-member screening committee, said more than 50 persons applied for the job. He said the committee is interviewing the top candidates and will submit a list of recommendations to CSU Athletic Director Thurman "Fum" McGraw, who will make the final decision.

Fuller in the past has refused offers of head coaching jobs with Lamar and West Texas State, and was recommended to Colorado State by Texas coach Fred Akers. Sidwell, a 1962 graduate of Denver East High School, earned All-Big Eight Conference honors at the University of Colorado and was named to the academic All-America team.

Campbell still has sights on rushing title

United Press International HOUSTON — The Cleveland Browns might keep it in mind tonight that Earl Campbell believes a fourth straight NFL rushing title still is within reach.

"I haven't given up and I won't give up," Campbell said. "Those days ahead of me are only 70 or 80 yards ahead, so if Leon Gray blocks his guy I can get that on one carry."

Actually, Campbell has more ground to make up than he thinks the Houston Oilers' final three games. Presently, he is the third leading rusher, 123 yards behind New Orleans' George Rogers and 57 yards behind Dallas' Tony Dorsett.

The setting in the Astrodome tonight is favorable for Campbell's contention toward a fourth title in his first four years, a feat accomplished by only one man — ex-Browns runner Jimmy Brown.

Campbell has 1,276 yards this year after gaining 1,450, 1,697 and 1,834 in his previous three years.

Meanwhile, the Browns and Oilers, both 5-8, try to re-ignite enthusiasm in disappointed fans who last year saw the teams tie for the American Football Conference Central Division title with 11-5 marks.

This year, Campbell has not run in the same rampaging, self-destructive fashion that he did in the past three years — something he acknowledged Wednesday.

"I'm not talking about our football team, but I can't continue to pull and drag people like I have in the past," he said.

Some people close to the team say Campbell took to heart comments by opposing defensive players who said he would have to stop running over tacklers if he wanted to play very long in the NFL.

Also, before this season he was embarrassed and disappointed when the Oilers disclosed his contract ultimatum: either renegotiate his six-year contract in its second year and pay him $1 million a year or he wouldn't play. The Oilers refused to renegotiate.

Before this season, Campbell responded in nationally televised games with outstanding performances. In his ABC-TV debut in 1978, he rushed for 199 yards and scored four touchdowns against Miami.
