UAW to begin campaign to turn its negative image

United Press International
DETROIT — It's not quite as folksy as "Look for the union label" but the United Auto Workers Union hopes its television ad campaign will improve its image.
The union takes to the airwaves this week with a series of commercials starring its members and featuring the strong message "The UAW wants to make America work again."
The spots also give credit to auto companies for design and engineering improvements made during the past few years.
Union spokesman Don Stillman said about $1 million worth of television time will be purchased in cities where the UAW has large membership concentrations.

These cities include Detroit and several other Michigan cities, Cleveland, Buffalo, Chicago, Los Angeles, St. Louis and Washington, D.C., where there are "a few people we want to reach," Stillman said.
The commercials — produced by the firm that filmed spots for Sen. Edward Kennedy's presidential campaign — will air on evening news programs and other selected shows.

Stillman said the union decided to go on the air following a survey that found the public blamed the UAW for the poor quality of American cars.
"Our own members felt they were being unfairly criticized," Stillman said. "What could be better than to talk to the American people using our own members' words about quality?"
"We want to turn around our unfair negative image and convince that segment that blames the worker."

Overdue debt dispute causes Connecticut man to see red

United Press International
NORWALK, Conn. — Police have charged two men with kidnapping another man and coating him with red paint, tar and feathers in an apparent dispute about an overdue debt.
Police said 36-year-old Bernard Sievert of Westport was "covered from head to toe with red enamel paint, a black tar-like substance and feathers" when he walked into police headquarters Monday night.

nearby Weston, tarred, feathered and released, police said.
Shortly after Sievert arrived at police headquarters, Robert Appell, 29, of Westport, and Alan Hager, 30, of Stamford, surrendered and were charged with first-degree kidnapping, first-degree assault, reckless endangerment and conspiracy.

The two men posted $25,000 bond each Tuesday and were released. The trial was set for Dec. 22 in Stamford Superior Court.
