Woodson Village proposal defeated by city council

By DANIEL PUCKETT

Battalion Staff
After a heated public hearing, College Station City Council Thursday night voted to disapprove the plat for the controversial Woodson Village subdivision off Holleman Drive.

The council also approved rezoning ordinances for two sections of property on Southwest Parkway, and approved increases in the size of the police and fire departments.

At Thursday night's meeting, residents of the Bee Creek watershed repeated objections they have made in recent months to the proposed Woodson Village subdivision, saying it would overburden an already inadequate sewage system which is damaging their homes.

However, Elrey Ash, director of capital improvements, said the system should be adequate to meet the area's needs, and proposed that the city inspect the system to determine why flooding was occurring. He also cited city staff reports that the building of the 25-house subdivision would not significantly add to the risk of flooding during storms.

But after angry reactions from residents of the area, the council voted 4 to 2 to disapprove the plat of the subdivision and voted unanimously to proceed with inspection of the sewage system. Council members Pat Boughton and Tony Jones voted to approve the plat.

In other action, council members unanimously approved rezoning a 111.49-acre tract on the north side of Southwest Parkway between Dartmouth Street and the East By-pass from residential to residential and commercial. The council also approved rezoning a 22.37-acre tract on the south side of Southwest Parkway just west of the East By-pass from residential to residential and commercial.

At its Dec. 3 meeting, the Planning and Zoning Commission had recommended that the council disapprove one of the zoning changes requested by the developer, Ronald Cruse. However, after commission member Murl Bailey said he had only made the recommendation to get the matter out of the commission's hands, the council unanimously approved Cruse's request.

Also considered were police and fire department requests for increases in the number of employees.

The Floriculture-Ornamental Horticulture Club will hold a holiday plant sale in the floriculture greenhouse Saturday from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.

Greenhouse manager Glenn Schroeter said such seasonal plants as Norfolk pines, Christmas cactuses and poinsettias will be sold in addition to tropical foliage plants.

The junior floriculture major said about 80 percent of the plants from the 3,000-square-foot greenhouse will be sold.

"Since we deal mainly with students, we try to sell for under $10," Schroeter said. "Usually, the vast majority of our plants are in 6-inch pots and sell for around $5."

The remaining poinsettias from the Pi Alpha Xi sale will be sold for $8 plus tax, Michael Koralewski, president of Pi Alpha Xi, said.

Club adviser Jim Johnson said the Norfolk pines, ranging from 12 inches to 18 inches tall, will be sold with or without ribbon bows.

Schroeter said the under $5 pines will sell for $5.

"The prices of the decorations will vary," he said, depending on how fancy we get with decorations."

The cactuses, which bloom around Christmas, range from $7, Johnson said.

"They will be in 4-inch pots are full of buds and blooms," Johnson said.

Johnson said the most popular tropical foliage plants are the smaller plants, ferns, and ficuses.

"They sell a lot of small that are just about the right size for a desk," he said.
