

Walsh considers discipline key factor in 49er victory

mented Monday after a post-Super Bowl XVI get-together with members of the media. "The thing is also remember that had occurred between him and defensive coordinator Chuck Studley during one of the 49ers' practice sessions earlier in the season.

"We bump heads sometimes," Buntz said of himself and Studley. "We were going through this walk-through one day and I was talking to the linebacker Dan Buntz, the big fourth-year linebacker who played a vit-rol role in the 49ers' dramatic third-quarter, goal-line stand against the Bengals, gave an illustration of how Walsh's assistants enforce discipline whenever Walsh's wife, Jerri, and daughter, Elizabeth, 11, were in the audience Monday and listened as he patiently answered all questions, then held still for some more after leaving the lecture hall if you know what I mean."

Walsh said: "Ours is not a boot camp. It's not the kind of discipline that some people might otherwise relate to. It's more like the discipline of a ballerina if you know what I mean."

former boss Muir joins Patriots,

United Press International
FOXBORO, Mass. — Bill Muir has resigned his post as personnel scout with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers to be reunited with old boss Ron Meyer as England Patriots, the club said Monday.

Muir, who coached the line-backers and offensive line under Meyer at SMU from 1976-77, is the first assistant coach to be named by the new Patriots boss.

Muir succeeded the fired Ron Erhardt.

Muir also was an assistant coach at Rhode Island and Idaho State and also held the offensive coordinator posts with Orlando and Shreveport in the old World Football League.

Muir joined the Bucs prior to the 1978 season as a college scout and assumed pro responsibilities a year later. He replaces Jim Kingo, who was fired along with other assistants.

Meyer is expected to make more appointments this week.
