Reviewing applications

Lee Jabara, a sophomore management major from Dallas, and Bill Muldoon a freshman electrical engineering major from Commerce, look at applications submitted for Fish Camp counselors. Of the 1500 applications printed, 1400 have been returned. Deadline for filing applications is February 12. Applications may be picked up in the Fish Camp Office, 216 MSC.

Songs take the stage in library

Aggie music on display

Aggie music and songs will be displayed on the second floor of the Sterling C. Evans Library throughout February.

history at Texas A&M University, Dr. Charles Schultz, University Archivist, said.

The exhibit contains an original letter written by cadet Marvin Mimms to band master Richard J. Dunn in July of 1925. In his letter, Mimms explains why he wants Dunn to put music to a new song he wrote for the University.

"Judge Walter S. Hunnycutt, a graduate of Texas University, would be glad to write the music to my song, but I don't want him in on the deal as Texas University would be boasting about one of their grads writing a school song for A&M College," he wrote.

Dunn accepted the offer and released "The Spirit of Aggieland" the next year.

The exhibit also includes early printings of "The Aggie War Hymn" — then known as "The Battle Hymn of A&M."

One such printing in a freshman yell book of 1926 has a footnote telling freshmen: "The tune and words of this new song of battle were written by Pinky Wilson, ex-'20 while on the Rhine — LEARN IT."

Schultz said the exhibit proves that some lines in the war hymn, which was written in 1919, were taken from yell books published before 1919.

"Hullabaloo Caneck Caneck" was in a 1906 yell book," he said, "while 'saw varsity's horns off' was in a 1915 yell book."

Other items on display include clippings and pictures of the first Texas Aggie Band, composer of "The Twelfth Man" Lil Munnerlyn, and "The Centennial March" written by current Texas Aggie Band director Col. Joseph T. Haney.

OCA cook-off

The Off-Campus Aggies will discuss Parents' Day activities, an apartment mixer and a chili cook-off at their meeting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in 601 Rudder.

OCA Vice President Bruce Martin said the organization is planning a five-complex apartment mixer in College Station this semester.

OCA also will discuss plans for a chili cook-off to be held May 1 on the grounds adjacent to the Texas Hall of Fame.

OCA is seeking a Texas chili association to sanction the event in order to draw more publicity and interest from across the state, Martin said.

Target 2000 meeting to discuss System plan

by Daniel Puckett
Battalion Staff
Two task forces of the Target 2000 Project will meet Thursday to discuss their ideas on the Texas A&M University System's next two decades.

Target 2000 Project last year to study the economic, social, political and technological problems facing the System and to decide how best to deal with them.

The project is divided into three task forces: one on the academic institutions, one dealing with the agricultural agencies and services, and one on the engineering agencies and services.

The task force on agriculture will meet at 8:15 a.m. in Rudder Forum; the engineering task force will meet at 9 a.m. in 601 Rudder. Both task forces will split up into work groups after brief opening remarks and will spend most of the day in discussion.

The director of the project, Dr. Robert E. Shutes, said while most groups probably will not decide on final recommendations until their March meeting, some may be ready Thursday to frame their proposals.

These tentative proposals must pass months of review and discussion before they are formally submitted in December's final report to the Texas A&M University System Board of Regents.
