Yankee must go, district judge says

United Press International
HOUSTON — The judge's sentence was "Yankee, go home."

State District Judge Ted Poe sentenced Richard L. Judd Jr., formerly of Lapeer, Mich., on a gun violation charge and told him to go back to his cold northern home state and not to return to Texas for at least two years. "He doesn't belong here," Poe said Monday. He put Judd, 34, on two years probation for carrying a weapon into a liquor license premises after Judd pleaded guilty. "He should go back where he belongs," Poe said.

Judd moved to Houston about a month ago and was employed as a roofer. He was arrested Thursday at a rock concert after police saw an outline of a gun in his pocket. A pistol, some marijuana and other drugs were found in his pocket.

The drug charges were dropped in the plea agreement.

Poe said his sentence has nothing to do with the feeling that some Texans may resent the job-seeking influx into the state.

Houston police rank last in all resource categories

United Press International
HOUSTON — A survey of police departments in 10 major U.S. cities ranks the Houston Police Department last in every resource category, department officials say.

The results of the survey, made by the department's planning and research department, were released Monday. It showed that Houston, with 1.7 million people, has 3,163 police officers, or 1.8 per 1,000 people. Philadelphia, with a similar population, has 7,600 officers, or 4.4 officers per 1,000 people.

The Dallas Police Department with 1,960 officers, has 2.1 officers per 1,000 people and six officers per square mile.

Spending for police in Houston is low: $75.68 per capita as compared to San Francisco, where $248.89 is spent for police per capita.

Boston's department spends $86.81 per capita for the department, and has 34 officers per square mile. And in Baltimore, where the population is less than half as big as Houston's, the police departments are about the same size. The department in Detroit is funded with a $203 million budget, or $169 per capita spending.

"It's hard to keep up with the city's growth, and this is not a good job market for hiring police officers," Lt. J.W. DeFoore, of the planning department, said. "There is too much job competition and we can't compete with industry."
