Con man convicted in flower scheme

United Press International
DALLAS — A promoter accused of bilking investors out of $225,000, telling them the money was going to build a chain of flower shops, has drawn a 20-year prison sentence.

Tuesday's decision ended Jackie Kalmin's second trial on the charges. He was convicted and sentenced to 15 years last July, but that conviction was thrown out on appeal because of an error in the judge's instructions.

Kalmin, who prosecutors said maintained plush offices and expensive cars and jewelry, approached 12 investors with a plan to build 10 flower shops around the city, prosecutors said.

"He sat behind his expensive desk and plush carpet like a snake waiting to strike," prosecuting attorney Denver McCarty said.

Kalmin opened three shops, which quickly folded for lack of operating funds. His lawyers contended Kalmin was trying to make the businesses succeed.

"These prosecutors are just bill collectors for those who have complaints," defense lawyer Ross Teter said.

Kalmin has been convicted of theft and served a year in jail for bilking investors in a phony car rental scheme. He also is under indictment in an offshore oil investment scheme.

In addition to his prison sentence, Kalmin was fined $10,000 and has $100,000 in judgements filed against him by two investors.

Donations verify win by Wright

United Press International
DALLAS — If campaign contributions were votes, 1981 tributes to political foes Wright and Jim Bradshaw would re-enact the 1980 victory by the House majority leader.

Reports filed with the Federal Election Commission show Wright, D-Texas, who won 60 percent of the vote against Bradshaw, raised more than $254,000 in 1981. Bradshaw raised only $7,395.

Wright's only opposition year will be Republican Ryan, a Eules carpenter Bradshaw defeated in the 1978 primary. Bradshaw is running for the newly created 26th district seat.
