Man involved in smuggling war copters pleads guilty

United Press International
DALLAS — A man who said he unwittingly became involved in a scheme to smuggle 15 fully armed Cobra helicopters out of the United States could be sentenced to five years in prison.

Carl M. Kulingian, 34, of Encino, Calif., pleaded guilty Tuesday to conspiracy to export products of war.

He told U.S. District Judge Robert Porter that he remained in the scheme to smuggle $15 million load to Iraq once he learned what it was because he feared for his life.

Porter set an April 14 sentencing date for Kulingian, head of a Los Angeles executive employment agency, who faces a maximum sentence of five years.

Kulingian was one of seven men named in a March 5 Dallas federal grand jury indictment alleging that the men conspired to smuggle the helicopters from the Bell Helicopter-Telectron plant in Amarillo to Iraq. Customs agents said one suspect also mentioned the possibility of selling the helicopters to Libya or South Africa.

Kulingian was arrested with two other men, Alfonso Lopez-

Quesare, 41, of Spain and Paulo Marcucci, 37, of Italy — in a raid on an Amarillo motel room.

All three men were transferred to a Dallas jail and face a May 17 trial date.

Thomas O'Connor, 51, and Max Field, in his mid-60s, both of Los Angeles, were arrested in California two weeks ago.
