Attorney says arson signs found in Westchase Hilton

United Press International
HOUSTON — "Burn trails," possibly marking where gasoline was poured, were found in a burned-out hotel room at the Westchase Hilton Hotel where a March 6 fire killed 11 guests, said a lawyer representing two charged hotel employees.

Houston Fire Department Deputy Chief Dale Everitt on Friday would not confirm or deny the claim of attorney William Rosch III that the marks exist, saying the investigation is not complete.

Everitt defended the Arson Bureau's investigation, which turned up no gasoline or accelerants in debris at the fire scene, saying, "Arson Bureau personnel are trained investigators."

"As I understand it, Mr. Rosch is an attorney," Everitt said. "He is not trained in what causes a fire."

Rosch said the "burn trails" were found in an area of Room 404, where the fire was contained. Investigators representing the hotel's insurance company said they found fire debris with traces of gasoline there. Fire officials doubt the authenticity of that evidence.

Rosch represents hotel manager Erich Huemer and night desk clerk James Harvey, who were charged with misdemeanor fire code violations. They are to be tried in municipal court April 7.

Harvey is accused of failing to call the Fire Department promptly. Huemer is charged with not filing a hotel evacuation plan with firefighters.
