Joe "King" Carrasco

Synapse Gap (Mundo Total), Joe "King" Carrasco and the Crowns, (MCA) — If you hurry, you can still catch him playing in tiny Austin or Houston clubs; he hooks up his guitar to a long cord and jumps on the tables, playing rock'n'roll and occasionally spraining or breaking something.

But you may not have much time left.

Joe "King" has signed a major contract and if his MCA album gets the attention it deserves, he won't be playing obscure beer joints much longer.

He's put out some records before but never anything this good. The songs are tight and inventive and the music is more adventurous than anything he's tried before.

You see, Joe Carrasco, from Dumas up in the Panhandle, decided he liked Sam the Sham and ? and the Mysterians and started to play the guitar. He got involved with conjunto musicians from San Antonio, got better, and became something of a celebrity in Austin, where his Benzedrine antics and laughing gas personality got him great reviews and sold-out shows.

From this disc, it isn't hard to see why. "Imitation Class" opens up with a B-52s electric jump, and before the record's done, you've heard reggae, conjunto, rock and New Wave filtered through Carrasco's giggling dementia.

His songs are chock-full of hooks; "Where We At" in particular latches onto your brain the minute you hear it. And Synapse Gap makes you want to dance — I've never seen a Carrasco crowd that wasn't swinging and jumping as if the spirit had finally moved them.

Synapse Gap is fun and it rocks and it's better than a cold longneck on a July day.
