Some things come and that's one of the things of working in the library. But the advantage of working in the library is that you can't be interrupted. Many projects are completed in the library. When most librarians have gone home, you are still here. All the activities during the day are concentrated in the library. He said, "I have gone home, but the technology is still here. Both day and night, the library is open. As the University number of students in the library at night is increasing. Most of the students are there during the hours there are there."
