

Women defeat LSU Tigers

by Frank L. Christlieb
Sports Editor

Changes can make all the difference in the world. At least Jan Cannon thinks so.

When the coach of the Texas Aggie women's tennis team decided to switch the order of her players in the team's match with LSU Wednesday, the result was a 6-3 victory over the Tigers. And Cannon says she hopes the strategy can continue to work when Texas A&M, now 9-13 for the season, hosts Lamar today at 1:30.

"It was a timely win," Cannon said. "We needed a win and we got it. We switched the alignment a little bit and it helped. Amy (Closs) played very well in No. 1 singles and beat a very good player."

Closs, who had been playing in the No. 2 spot until Monday, defeated LSU's Carol Boston 3-6, 6-2, 6-3. Cannon said she plans to insert Closs into the No. 1 spot in today's match with the Cardinals as well.

Richard pitches in exhibition play pitched in an Astros intrasquad game.

Richard trotted from the bullpen to the mound to start the eighth inning Sunday and received a standing ovation. When he left the field after pitching a 3-2 lead, he received another ovation.

While on the mound he pitched the first two batters on ground outs, walked the next three and then retired the side another groundout.

General Manager Al Rosen whose idea it was to pitch Richard, beamed.

"I'm real happy for him. He wasn't too far off the plate. I just delighted with him," he said.

Richard refused to answer reporters' questions.

To start this season, Richard has been assigned to an extended spring training in Sarasota, Fla.

COCOA, Fla. — J.R. Richard pitched wildly, but good enough to get the Toronto Blue Jays out in a surprise one-inning appearance during the Houston Astros final exhibition game.

"The first thing that struck me about J.R. — considering the background — was his breaking ball. It was good," Blue Jays hitting coach Garth Iorg said.

The performance marked the first time Richard, a stroke victim, pitched against hitters of another team since July 14, 1980. Earlier this spring he had pitched in an Astros intrasquad game.

Golfers still getting set for Masters

United Press International
AUGUSTA, Ga. — Five-time champion Jack Nicklaus has added edge in this week's Masters golf tournament.

Nicklaus had four days of good weather last week that allowed his usual procedure of working on his game with practice rounds over the Augusta National course.

The Masters is only two days away, but most of the other competitors spent Monday, which would have been their first practice round, watching a downpour from the clubhouse.

"I'd rather practice in the rain than wind here," said Nicklaus. "I'm not going to lose my rhythm by tossing the ball. I'll be in the hole before the course closed for the day at noon."

"With the tall pines they're so close to the hole, it's almost impossible to judge the wind. It swirls around those trees and you never know which way it's blowing. You watch your partner hit a six-iron to a green and when you try to do the same, you find you've been clubbed."

Nicklaus, who last won here in 1975 but tied Miller last year, second, two strokes behind Tom Watson, practiced on the Augusta National course Wednesday through Saturday then went to south Florida to spend the weekend with family. He is scheduled to return this afternoon.

"I felt I played real good last week," said Nicklaus. "I'm concerned about my long game and that seemed to be coming around. I had a lot of work on the way things went left in a good frame of mind."

Watson spent last week at home in Kansas, getting ready for the Masters, and after being forced off the course Monday spent an hour hitting practice shots in the rain.

Watson, who also has won the British Open three times, beat Nicklaus by two strokes in 1978, lost a playoff to Fuzzy Zoeller and slipped to 12th in '80 before rebounding last year with a two-stroke victory.
