Langer, whose specialty is writing comedy, has a lot of fun with the annual fiscal trauma.

"Typical is one section called,

"What color is your tax shelter?"

"Tax shelters come in all colors from brilliant to blah," he says.

Illustrations in this segment include a rundown three-story dwelling, windows broken and boarded up, fire escape broken, the whole thing a hopeless mess.

"Color this piece red because of depreciation and mortgage interest in order to shelter your profits in other areas," he advises.

"In the black" shows the silhouette of a padre with instructions. "Your shelter need not show a loss, just register it as small birdhouse on a pole.

"Claim a large deduction for use of your yacht for business purposes," reads another, beneath a sketch of a sailboat. "If you don't have a yacht, color it green with envy."

And a tax shelter for "endangered wildlife" is a single small birdhouse on a pole.

Increased consumption of hydrogen has prompted Kenedy Space Center scientists and engineers to look at a less expensive source of hydrogen, the most highly efficient and cleanest burning fuel available to spacecrafts.

Spars said the ideal way to produce hydrogen would be to convert sunlight into electric power.

And certain kinds of plants produce hydrogen as a by-product of their metabolic processes. But they require a readily available supply of sugar.
