Budweiser takes front line from Coors in beer battle

United Press International
DALLAS— Industry figures show Anheuser-Busch's Budweiser is now the top-selling beer in Texas, considered the country's most competitive market, while a light beer has moved into the runner-up slot.

Beer industry figures released Thursday show Budweiser, advertised as the "king of beers," has captured the hearts and bellies of Texas beer drinkers. It marked the first time in Anheuser-Busch's 105-year history that it had a No. 1 beer in Texas.

The data, based on beer shipments, also showed the beer which gained the largest market increase was Miller Lite, brewed by Busch's archcompetitor, Philip Morris, which outsells any other beermaker overall.

"Light beer seems to be appealing to your Texas hard-drinking honky-tonk type," Alan Easton, a spokesman for Philip Morris, said. "He can stand and drink longer. We think our beer is best, of course."

The No. 3 beer is Coors, the former champ, according to trade figures released Thursday.

"In Texas we've got a dog-fight going on," said an industry source in Dallas. "A lot of advertising dollars are being poured in. This is a real beer war, probably the toughest in the United States."

"It will be interesting to see what happens when Budweiser brings in its light beer. Up to now that has not been a factor in Texas."

Budweiser officials were unavailable for comment.

Philip Morris officials said Texas may become the first state in the nation in which a diet beer becomes king.

Miller Lite beer took a 5.4 percent jump last year from its 12.3 percent 1980 Texas market share. It is now less than a percentage point behind Budweiser, which holds 18.6 percent of the Texas market.

Coors beer dropped from the No. 1 slot, holding 20.4 percent in 1980, to No. 3 with 16.5 percent.

"Texas is a very, very important state to the brewing industry," Easton said. "It is booming economically and per capita beer consumption is among the highest in the country. What happens in Texas seems to cause or indicate a trend across the southwestern Sunbelt."
