

Care of traumatized to be topic of health symposium

by Amy Polk
Battalion Reporter

The Texas A&M University Emergency Care Team will sponsor an all-day health symposium Saturday called "The First Hour pre-Hospital Care of the Traumatized Patient."

It is a 5-year-old organization with a growing membership of more than 100 paramedics, emergency medical technicians, emergency care attendants and Red Cross first-aiders," Williams said.

"If people want our services, we can schedule it," he said. Texas fire departments, emergency rooms and others involved in emergency care have been contacted by TAMECT, and the group expects more than 200 to attend the symposium, Lisa Nameth, TAMECT public relations director, said.

The program will include five speakers:

• 8:45 a.m. — Dr. Ameen Ramzy of the Maryland Institute of Emergency Medical Services will discuss the innovation of a statewide trauma center in Maryland.

• 10 a.m. — Dr. James H. Duke, director of the Hermann Hospital Life Flight operations will discuss the program which uses helicopters to fly patients to needed hospital care throughout Texas. Duke is also a professor and director of Programs and Emergency Medical Services and a director of the University of Texas School of Medicine in Houston.

• 1:15 p.m. — Dr. John Allen will speak on the treatment of face and neck injuries. Allen is a professor in the department of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery at Baylor College of Dentistry and at Baylor Hospital in Dallas.

• 2:30 p.m. — Dr. Thomas Glass Jr. will speak on poisonous snake bites. Glass is a clinical professor of surgery at the University of Texas Health Center in San Antonio.

• 3:45 p.m. — Dr. David N. Herndon will discuss the care of burn patients. Herndon is chief of staff at Shriners Burn Institute in Galveston.

TAMECT will hold a banquet Friday night for the speakers, Williams said.

Emergency phone number real ringer, often needlessly

by Beverly Hamilton
Battalion Reporter

The emergency number 911 is called from 40 to 60 times a day, but only about one-third of those calls are for emergencies, says Capt. Dave Giordano of the College Station Fire Department.

too many calls received on the 911 number are not emergencies.

"Some people call without even thinking," Feldman said. "It's nothing that can't be handled."

If someone calls in with a minor emergency, the police officers urge the person to call back on the department's other number, Feldman said.

If the problem of having too many non-emergency calls gets out of hand, Feldman said, the police department will inform the public.

Heart attacks, fires, murders and car accidents are examples of emergencies, Feldman said. In these cases the 911 number is effective at saving time.

Children's two-week camp set for campus this summer

Children in the Bryan-College Station area will have a chance to use Texas A&M University facilities in a two-week camp this summer.

that children can't learn in area public schools," Director Camille Bunting said.

"A majority of day camps are glorified babysitters. We offer instruction in things that are useful and fun to learn."

The children will participate in activities such as rappelling, camcraft, riflery, canoeing and archery, and will be supervised by college students and teachers with expertise in outdoor education.

The camp runs June 7 to June 18.
