

CAB lets Eastern pick up some of Braniff's routes

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Braniff International Airlines is delighted with a Civil Aeronautics Board decision allowing Eastern Airlines to pick up its South American routes for $30 million.

In a closed meeting late Monday, the CAB gave tentative approval to Eastern's plan to operate the routes for at least a year, beginning June 1. Originally the meeting was called to hear an emergency petition filed by Braniff proposing that Pan American World Airways take over the routes.

Eastern will operate the routes pending final board approval based on hearings beginning in June. Eastern had proposed a six-year agreement.

Eastern was pleased with the decision but, not surprisingly, Pan Am was not.

"We feel the board rushed into approval of an agreement that does not provide a basis for preserving Braniff's South American route network," Pan Am spokeswoman Pamela Hanlon said. "The Eastern-Braniff agreement provides for no service in 12 of 24 intra-South American markets, nor does it provide for any nonstop service from the U.S. West Coast to South America."

Braniff had asked for permission to lease the routes to Pan Am for $30 million. The CAB promptly had refused to give interim approval to that proposal, saying the issues were too complex to be resolved quickly.

Braniff officials requested urgency, saying they were beginning to face a cash shortage.

Under the proposal made by Eastern, Braniff will maintain its South American services for the month of May and Eastern will provide funds to help support the operation.

In Miami, Eastern Airlines spokesman Jim Ashlock said, "We are extremely pleased by the board's action. We have had disappointments in the past, so it is pleasing to gain international expansion."

"We think the validity of what we proposed will hold up (at the CAB hearings) and we'll wind up with the full six-year arrangement we asked for."

CAB spokesman Ed Hamilton said they preferred to award the routes to Eastern instead of Pan Am because "they felt it would be more competitive to keep two U.S. carriers in the market."

"We're delighted," Braniff Vice President Sam Coats said late Monday. "It's the best news Braniff has had in three years. It triggers the ability to restructure our entire debt. It gives us the breathing room we have sought."

The carrier would assume employment of Braniff's Latin American-based employees, but no transfer of flight equipment would be involved. The agreement covers all routes except those in Brazil and Venezuela.

Gambler wins jackpot; turns around, loses it

United Press International
SEATTLE — The man who won the biggest slot machine jackpot in Las Vegas casino history says he already has squandered about three-fourths of the windfall trying to win more.

Cecil Burns, 56, who lived on a disability pension and frequented the bars in Seattle's Skid Row area, hit a $400,000 jackpot at the Circus Circus Hotel Casino April 3.

Burns, wearing several days' growth of beard, was back on Skid Row Monday, telling his pals at the Publix Hotel Bar how he had struck it rich.

"The Circus Circus gave me the royal suite and I called the bell captain and got all the pretty girls I wanted, the best looking girls in the world," Burns said.

"But the security guards were all around, and I said to hell with it and slipped out the back door. I went over to the Hilton and tried my luck there and at the other clubs."

Burns had told Circus Circus staff he wanted to go back to Seattle, so they bought him an airplane ticket.

"I cashed the airplane ticket and went to the Circus Circus in Reno and played the slots there, and then I went back to Las Vegas and back and forth," he said.

"I spent that $300,000 trying to hit another $400,000. Now, I'm broke." He later added that he still had about $100,000.

The Circus Circus informed the Internal Revenue Service about Burns' jackpot. But Burns has not paid any IRS tax.

"I've already spent their money, too," he said.

Burns didn't seem dismayed with his luck following the big jackpot, happy just to be back with his pals, Bud Lodi and Pete Gill, at the Publix Hotel Bar.

"We rode 18,000 miles together on freight trains," Burns said.

He said he is the son of a Texas gambler and that he was born in a tent and grew up in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California. He served in the Army for 16 years, seeing action in both World War II and the Korean War, and was disabled in the service.
