The Aggie women's softball team takes its No. 1 national ranking into the 12-team Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women national tournament, which opens Thursday in Norman, Okla.

Texas A&M, which compiled a 36-3 fall record on the way to the state championship, finished the spring with a 41-5 record. During Bob Brock's first year as the Aggies' coach, the team won the SWAIAW regional title by defeating Stephen F. Austin once and Oklahoma State twice.

Other seeds in the national competition include Utah, Cal-Berkeley, Michigan, Rhode Island and Southwest Missouri. The six teams rounding out the tournament field are Ohio State, Oklahoma, the United States International University, Western Illinois, Central Michigan and Oklahoma State.

Texas A&M, which has a bye in the first round, opens Thursday night at 7:30 against the winner of the Ohio State-United States International game. That contest is scheduled for Thursday at 3 p.m.

The Aggies will make their fourth straight appearance in the national tournament after placing fifth in 1979, third in 1980 and fourth in 1981. Texas A&M has defeated seven of the teams in the tourney, and has lost only to USIU earlier in the spring.

Included on Brock's 14-player squad are second baseman Patti Holthaus, shortstop Carrie Austgen, third baseman Maria Resendez, rightfielder Karen Guerrero, leftfielder Mary Lou Youngblood, pitchers

Lori Stoll and Shan McDonald, designated hitter-outfielder Josie Carter, outfielders Iva Jackson, Mel Pritchard and Rose Ruffino, first baseman-catcher Linda Lancaster, first baseman-catcher Shannon Murray and catcher Gay McNutt.

McDonald, a junior, had a 20-1 spring record and a 0.41 ERA after compiling 13-1 and 0.08 marks during the fall. Stoll, also a junior, had a 19-4 record for the spring and a 10-2 record for the fall. Freshman Lisa Martinez, who withdrew from the University during March, had a 13-0 record during the fall and a 2-0 record for the spring. While Texas A&M struck out 319 batters in 27 innings in the fall, they had 336 strikeouts in 336 during the spring portion of the season. As a team, the Aggies had 359 and Youngblood leading the way.

Here are the national men's first-round games: — Ohio State-ISIU — Oklahoma-Rhode Island — Southwest Missouri-Central Michigan — Oklahoma State-Illinois

Skeet and trap squad earns title

The Texas A&M Skeet and Trap team has won the national championship, sweeping all four individual categories in the competition.

The Aggies outscored more than 20 teams, including the U.S. Military and Naval Academies, during the Association of College Unions International National Collegiate Skeet and Trap Championship tournament. The event was held in Peoria, Ill.

The Air Force Academy placed second in the competition, nearly 100 points behind Texas A&M.

Dr. E.E. Burns, the team's coach and adviser for the last 10 years, said that the Aggies' finish marked the first time to his knowledge that team members from a single university had won individual honors in all four divisions in addition to winning the overall trophy.

Individual winners were Jeff Sizemore, a sophomore agricultural economics major from Corpus Christi, taking first place in both the international skeet and American skeet divisions. Sizemore's victory in international skeet was his third consecutive triumph in that division.

Jeff Birmingham, a freshman geology student from Port Lavaca, placed first in the international trap division and Glenn Douglas, a senior agricultural economics major from Bay City, took first place in the American trap division.

Aggies prepare for NCAA competition

Two juniors on the Aggie men's tennis team will open competition today in the NCAA tennis championships in Athens, Ga.

Brian Joelson, Texas A&M's No. 1 seed throughout the past season, will take part in the singles competition, and will join Tom Judson in the doubles portion of the tourney.

Texas A&M coach David Kent said the two players have demonstrated their ability and are deserving of the invitation to participate in the championships.

"I feel that Joelson is one of the top singles players in the country," Kent said. "And he and Judson have had some quality wins in doubles this season."

The Aggie men's golf team, which won the Southwest Conference title April 16-18, will play in the NCAA tournament May 26-29 in Pinehurst, N.C. Junior Danny Briggs, the SWC medalist, competed in the Colonial Invitational, held over the weekend in Fort Worth.

The No. 3-ranked women's golf team, which overtook top-ranked TCU to win the state title in April, is one of 19 squads selected to play in the NCAA championships May 26-29 at Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif.

The Aggies will compete against Arizona, Arizona State, Brigham Young, Florida, Florida International, Louisiana State, Michigan State, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma State, Rollins, San Jose State, Southern California, Southern Methodist, Stanford, TCU, Tulsa and UCLA.

Texas A&M, coached by Kitty Holley, will play in the AIAW national tourney in Columbus, Ohio, June 16-19, with Ohio State hosting the event. Junior Shirley Furlong, the state medalist, and senior Monica Welsh are the Aggie co-captains. Junior Jackie Bertram, sophomore Susan Yantis and freshman Patricia Gonzalez complete the five-player squad which will take part in both national tournaments.
