Unwed father-to-b wins right to be in delivery room

United Press International

LANSING, Mich. — The Michigan Court of Appeals has ruled an unwed father-to-be is entitled to attend the birth of his child, despite hospital rules that limit attendance in the delivery room to immediate family members.

The decision, released Monday, means Edward Coch will be able to accompany his girlfriend, Karen Whitman, when she delivers their baby — expected this week.

Coch and Whitman, who attended childbirth classes together, filed suit against Mercy-Memorial Hospital because it refused to allow unmarried fathers-to-be into the delivery room.

In its ruling, the three-judge appeals panel said Coch had submitted a legal notice of intent to claim paternity and that the hospital had admitted he would have been allowed to accomp Whitman if they were mar

Coch and Whitman sha home in Monroe, Mich., said they have not ruled marriage but did not think the responsibility of the hos to force people into matrim

About three months ago were told only relatives of mother were allowed at the livery — meaning the wom siblings, parents, cousins grandparents but not the ha father.

They took the case to Mo County court, claiming the pital rule violated state la discriminating on the bas marital status.

Whitman is divorced f her first husband, who, she abandoned her shortly be the birth of one of her child She said the loneliness of delivery made her adamant out having Coch present.

Woman, 75, gets 3 years for dope

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — A grandmother, 75, convicted of smuggling cocaine has been sentenced to three years in prison by a federal judge who called it a message to drug traffickers they cannot use the elderly as couriers.

U.S. District Judge Terry Hatter Jr. Monday ignored the recommendation of probation officials to give Heliodora Saenz a one-year sentence despite her attorney's contention three years "equates to a life sentence for her."

She is believed to be the oldest woman prosecuted in re history by the local U.S. att ney's office.

Prosecutor James Wa argued the grandmother of a Colombian national with previous arrest record, pose threat to society.

"She brings narcotics in h where her grandchildren w come in touch with them, your children and mine might Walsh said.

Judge Hatter said: "It is a s situation in a society that has respect for its elders. There little doubt this woman has be used."

Hispanic birth-rate high: repor

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Hisp nics have higher-than-averag birth and fertility rates, and Hi panic mothers are more likely have babies while in their teen cutting short their schooling, new government report says.

The report by the Nation Center for Health Statistics, r leased Monday, said the 197 Hispanic birth rate was 25 births per 1,000 population nearly 75 percent higher tha the 14.7 births per 1,000 fo non-Hispanics, the report said.

The report, "Births of Hispa nic Parentage, 1979," by Steph nie Ventura, includes informa tion from 19 states with 60 per cent of the nation's Hispanics.

Births to Hispanic mothers accounted for 196,000 of the 1.6 million reported births in the 1 states.

Hispanics' fertility rate wa 100.5 births per 1,000 women of child-bearing ages, 59 percent above the rate for non-Hispanic women, which is 63.2, the report said.

"Hispanic mothers tend to be somewhat younger than white non-Hispanic mothers, but considerably older than black non-Hispanic mothers," it said.

Nineteen percent of Hispanic mothers were under 20 years of age, compared with 15 percent of non-Hispanic mothers — 12.1 percent for whites and 27.5 percent for black non-Hispanics, the report said.

"The relatively large proportion of births to teenagers among Hispanic mothers is a factor accounting for the lower levels of educational achievement observed for Hispanic women," the report said.

In 1979, 47.3 percent of Hispanic mothers had finished 12 years of school, compared with 82.1 percent for whites and 62 percent for blacks. The median educational level was 11.7 years of school, compared with 12.7 for whites and 12.3 for blacks.

Hispanic mothers also are less likely to see a doctor in their first months of pregnancy, the report said. About 60 percent did in 1979, "considerably below" the 81.2 percent for white non-Hispanic mothers, but about the same as for black mothers.
