Clark's 10th-inning pinch-hit propels Giants 4-3

United Press International
Jack Clark figured he would hit the ball straight rather than wait for some pitcher to throw it to him crooked.

"I didn't want to take a chance on him getting ahead of me, then trying to trick me by throwing some curves where I might take an awkward-type swing," Clark said Tuesday night, after he singled in a run in the 11th to give the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Clark's single with one out scored Darrell Evans and made up for the frustration of sitting on the bench with Achilles' tendon problems.

"I consider this day another whole day of rest," Clark said. "I just had a little bit of pain but with the fields being wet I didn't know until I saw the doctor if I could risk hurting it worse."

"The doctor didn't get to the park until about 7:30 (30 minutes before gametime) so I couldn't test it hard."

PADRES 9, CUBS 1 — At Chicago, Broderick Perkins drove in three runs with a triple and a single and Ruppert Jones belted a three-run homer to lead San Diego.

BRAVES 7, METS 3 — At New York, Dale Murphy keyed a four-run first inning with his 15th homer, a three-run blast, to spark Atlanta. Murphy's home run gave him the NL lead.

PIRATES 3, DODGERS 1 — At Pittsburgh, Bill Madlock smashed a two-run homer and John Candelaria and two relievers combined on a fivehitter to help the Pirates send Jerry Reuss to his fifth loss in 10 decisions.

REDS 4, PHILLIES 1 — At Philadelphia, Mike Vail singled in one run and added a pair of doubles in support of Greg Harris' five-hit pitching, leading Cincinnati to a seven inning victory. The game was called after a 94-minute rain delay.

In the American League, Dan Quisenberry, the ace reliever of the Kansas City Royals, bailed his club out of trouble again Tuesday night by pitching out of a seventh-inning jam and pacing a 4-3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Quisenberry notched a league-leading 13th save and helped Vida Blue, 3-3, post his first victory since May 10.

With the White Sox trailing, 4-3, and a runner on first in the seventh, Quisenberry took over from Mike Armstrong, who relieved after the fifth, and was greeted by Ron LeFlore's single that put runners on first and third. Quisenberry then faked a pickoff move to third, turned and threw to first to pick off LeFlore. He got two groundouts to end the threat.

"It was more of a mystical year in 1980," said Quisenberry. "It didn't matter if I had good stuff or bad stuff, I only had the one pitch (sink). Now it's different. I've got the slider and a knuckleball. I'm a different pitcher."

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland beat Minnesota, 6-4, Toronto downed New York, 5-2, Milwaukee nipped Seattle, 2-1, Oakland edged Boston, 3-2, and Detroit topped California, 2-1. Texas at Baltimore was rained out.

INDIANS 6, TWINS 4 — At Cleveland, reliever Ron Davis walked pinch-hitter Karl Pagel with the bases loaded in the eighth inning to force home the go-ahead run and Andre Thornton belted a three-run homer to help the Indians to their ninth straight victory. The loss was the Twins' 13th straight.

BLUE JAYS 5, YANKEES 3 — At Toronto, Barry Bonnell's two-run single off Rich Gossage with one out in the eighth inning keyed a four-run rally that carried the Blue Jays to their fourth consecutive victory.

BREWERS 2, MARINERS 1 — At Seattle, Pete Vuckovich and Rollie Fingers combined on a four-hitter and Ted Simmons hit a home run to pace the Brewers.

A's 3, RED SOX 2 — At Oakland, Calif., Rickey Henderson's two-run, fifth inning homer paced the A's to victory. In addition to his homer, Henderson walked and stole two more bases to give him 51 in 51 games.

TIGERS 2, ANGELS 1 — At Anaheim, Calif., Dan Petry and Dave Tobik combined on a seven-hitter and center-fielder Kirk Gibson saved three runs with two running catches to spark the Tigers.

SWC to sponsor seven women's sports

United Press International
WEST COLUMBIA — Southwest Conference officials have shattered a 68-year tradition of male-only sports participation in approving the addition to women's sports and post-season championships.

Faculty representatives of the nine SWC schools Tuesday voted to sponsor seven women's sports and championships along with the nine men's sports.

The sports include basketball, volleyball, outdoor track, indoor track, cross country, swimming and tennis beginning in the 1982-1983 school year. A SWC spokesman said other sports were not added because less than the required six schools indicated they would participate.

Women at SWC schools previously had competed under the auspices of the AIAW, but the organization is being disbanded.

SWC representatives also voted to experiment again with a basketball shot clock. The conference plans to experiment with a 45-second shot clock for all but the last five minutes of conference games and in non-conference games when opponents agree to its use.

The SWC in 1975 and 1976 was the first college conference to try the shot clock but did not permanently institute it.

SWC officials also restored a year of eligibility to Houston 7-footer Akeem "The Dream" Abdul Olajuwon, a center from Lagos, Nigeria, who was a factor in the Cougars' rise to the NCAA semifinals.

Houston said Olajuwon practiced only 15 minutes in the fall of 1979 before he formally joined the basketball team. The NCAA ruled it a minor infraction and the SWC voted to allow Olajuwon three more seasons of eligibility.

In other action, the SWC:

— Reaffirmed the concept of a conference-wide radio network to broadcast football games and voted to continue to seek network prospects bids as the conference's five-year contract with Mutual Radio is entering its last year.

— Adopted the NCAA rule allowing scholarships to athletes who attend summer school full-time.

— Allowed credits obtained in the Collegiate Level Equivalency Program to be used for eligibility within the first year of taking the exam.

— Permitted physical education courses to count for athletic eligibility if they are acceptable credits toward a degree at that school.

— Gave an extra year of eligibility to Scott Davis, Texas Tech football; Bubba Jennings, Texas Tech basketball; Kent Rowald, Rice football; Tom Miller, Rice basketball; David Walker, TCU track; Lance Armstrong, TCU tennis; Michael Carter, SMU football; John Elkins, Texas A&M football, and Jimmy Howard, Texas A&M indoor track and outdoor track.

— Reinstated eligibility for Clint Groves, Texas, medical relief; Michael Timothy Ward, A&M football, medical relief, and Bill Wendlandt, Texas basketball. In Wendlandt's case, the conference reaffirmed a NCAA ruling returning a year of eligibility and placing his only penalty as two basketball games of next season for playing in two YMCA league tournament games.

— Approved transfers of Charlie Crowder from Baylor to play football at TCU; Rex Scoggins to Baylor football from TCU and of baseball player Wesley Walker, who attended Baylor, graduated from junior college and wants to return to a SWC school.

Prairie View coach joins TSU as AD

United Press International
HOUSTON — Texas Southern University Tuesday announced the selection of Prairie View A&M basketball coach Calvin O. White as athletic director.

White was chosen from a field of 33 candidates, 29 of them from outside the state. University officials said White was selected as athletic director over two TSU coaches in coordination with a decision to separate the director from a coaching position.

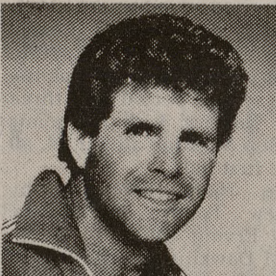

The 46-year-old White joined Prairie View in 1979 and served as basketball coach, teacher of physical education and supervisor of student teachers. Dr. White received his doctorate from East Texas State University.
