Anti-nuclear protests hit five major U.N. missions

United Press International
NEW YORK — Helmeted police guarding the U.N. missions of the five major world powers Monday arrested more than 600 chanting anti-nuclear protesters who tried to blockade the diplomatic compounds in a massive display of civil disobedience.

More than 3,000 police officers guarded the missions of the United States, the Soviet Union, China, France and Great Britain, and the first arrests were made before the "Blockade the Bombmakers" protest officially started at 8 a.m.

Although there were no reports of violence, the display of civil disobedience contrasted sharply with the anti-nuclear rally by more than 700,000 people in Central Park on Saturday. Both protests were timed to coincide with the United Nation's Second Special Session on Disarmament.

Police reported that more than 900 people had been arrested on disorderly conduct charges in the first two hours of the protest, 579 of them at the U.S. and Soviet missions. The only arrest at Saturday's rally, the largest disarmament protest ever in the nation, was for petty larceny. Among those arrested at the U.S. Mission was long-time peace activist, the Rev. Daniel Berrigan. Demonstrators were kept away from the U.N. compound, where there was the usual tight security for heads of state and government arriving to address the special disarmament session.

Panamanian President Aristides Royo Sanchez and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt were among a dozen speakers in the General Assembly, where President Reagan will deliver a major address Thursday.

Protesters at the U.S. Mission, in the shadow of the United Nations Buildings, shouted "the whole world is watching" as their arrested colleagues were carried on stretchers or led to waiting buses.

Sitting or standing with arms, the demonstrators chanted, "We shall have peace," and cheered as loads of those arrested were driven away.

Deputy Police Commissioner for Public Information, McGillion said police—wearing helmets in the event of a riot—had orders to arrest anyone who tried to cross official cadences. The staffs at the missions to go through special checks to get to work as protests snarled traffic streets around the United Nations and the diplomatic pounds.

Couple charged with selling their two infants to pay rent

United Press International
FORT MYERS, Fla. — An indigent Florida couple, three months behind on their rent, were arrested and charged with selling their two infant sons for $300 each so they wouldn't be kicked out of their apartment, police say.

However, another couple accused of buying one of the children denied the charges, saying they were only taking care of the boy temporarily.

Police said Miguel Angel Ocasio, 28, confessed Saturday that he and his wife, Luce Nilda Ocasio, 21, sold 17-month-old Oscar and 9-month-old Miguel Jr. for $300 each to make rent payments.

The Ocasios were arrested along with two couples accused of doing the buying: Ann Margarita Williams, 26, and her husband Gary Williams, 23; and Aida Esther Gonzalez, 43, and her husband, Juan Jose Gonzalez, 31.

But Ann Williams said Sunday she and her husband agreed only to take care of one of the children. "We volunteered to take the children, and when we agreed to take the children there was no mention of money," Mrs. Williams said. "The children's mother and father never asked for any money, they only asked that we take care of the children and take them to church."

Mrs. Williams said she gave the Ocasios money to help with the bills.

Detective Sgt. Stewart Jennings said because money was exchanged, the couples are guilty of the offense of receiving a child for pay.

"For giving that help to receive two children," Jennings said.

Mrs. Williams was released Sunday on her own recognizance, while her husband posted a $1,000 bond. Mrs. Gonzalez was also released on her own recognizance, while her husband remained in jail with a $1,000 bond.

The Ocasios remained in jail with bond set at $2,500 each.

Reagan writes Ann Landers in response to anti-nuke letter

United Press International
CHICAGO — President Reagan sent a letter to syndicated advice columnist Ann Landers telling her that the thousands of her readers who wrote him about nuclear war should direct their notes to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

Reagan's letter, which defended U.S. efforts at disarmament, was spurred by a May 17 Ann Landers column in which she answered a letter from "Terrified in D.C." by spelling out the horrors of nuclear war. Dear Ann asked her readers to sign their names across the top of the column and send it to Reagan to prevent a nuclear holocaust that would mean the end of life on this planet.

The White House told Sun-Times about 100,000 readers sent the column to the president.

Reagan responded by writing Eppie Lederer, who is Ann Landers, a 350-word letter a cover note that said: "Eppie: I hope you will like me, but I had to write Ann letter. Nancy sends best. Sincerely, Ron."

In the letter, Reagan defended U.S. efforts for arms reductions and said one feels more than 100 million for peace."

He suggested that Ann's readers send copies of the column to Brezhnev.

The newspaper said that Ann Landers was the presidential letter and response in a column to be in Monday's editions. She asked Dr. Armand Hammer, chairman of Occidental Petroleum, to make sure of the May 17 column delivered to Brezhnev.

"If I hear from Brezhnev, President, I'll call you," Landers said. "If you hear him, please call me. It will make my day."

PAIN IS THE WARNING SYSTEM OF YOUR BODY

WARNING!
8 DANGER SIGNALS

EVERYBODY HATES PAIN.

So instead of listening to their bodies, many people's first inclination at the sign of an ache or pain is to take a medication to cover it up. This is like turning off a fire-alarm without making an attempt to put out the fire.

LISTEN TO YOUR BODY.

Pain is important to your well-being. It is nature's early warning signal, a life and death message relayed through your nervous system that tells you when something is wrong. As such, pain is merely a symptom and not the cause of most health problems. Therefore, the sensible approach to health is not to merely turn off the pain (or treat the symptom), but rather, to find the causes and correct them.

If you suffer from one or more of the 8 Danger Signals, you shouldn't just ignore them. Although you might "tough it out" and the severe pain may eventually go away, you could be left with permanent, irreparable damage that might show itself later as another, more serious health problem. First private hydroelectric plant opens

United Press International
REDDING, Calif. — The nation's first hydroelectric plant not owned by a public utility has gone into operation in Shasta County — using a turbine purchased from the People's Republic of China.

American and Chinese officials on hand for the dedication ceremonies Sunday said the 1.5 megawatt plant is a major sign of cooperation between the two countries.

Chinese Consul General Dingyi said China has been building the small generators almost 40 years and that there are 90,000 of them in use.

It took about 18 months to build, and the 670 kilowatt power plant will generate enough to power about 100 homes — has been purchased by Pacific Gas & Electric Co.
