Freed obese rapist sent back to prison

United Press International
TRENTON, N.J. — A superior court judge revoked the bail for 565-pound rapist Joseph "Jo Jo" Giorgianni Wednesday and ordered him back to jail to serve a 15-year sentence lifted earlier for health reasons.

"The defendant's health problems have not prevented him from engaging in normal activities," Judge Richard Barlow Jr. said at the 2-day hearing called to reconsider the obese sex offender's sentence reduction.

Giorgianni was ordered to begin serving his sentence immediately.

Barlow listened to closing arguments from county prosecutor Phillip Carchman who cited testimony and argued Giorgianni should be jailed because of the brutal nature of the crime.

Giorgianni was convicted in 1980 of raping a girl, 14, behind his steak house.

"This defendant may die if he goes to jail," Giorgianni's attorney E. John Wherry told Barlow after the sentence was reinstated. Wherry said an appeal would be filed within 24 hours.

Giorgianni arrived at the courthouse at 7:30 a.m. and waited in a room on the fifth floor for the hearing to begin. He walked up the courthouse steps alone, after being dropped off by a woman in a black Lincoln Continental.

Giorgianni, who wore a white short sleeve shirt and brown polyester pants, sat on a special double wooden bench as Barlow delivered his decision before a packed courtroom.

Barlow ordered Giorgianni released Aug. 6 after he had served less than a week of the 15-year sentence. He based his ruling on medical testimony that incarceration would be life-threatening to Giorgianni because of the lack of air conditioning and other facilities in jail.

During Tuesday's hearing, Carchman introduced a videotape of the sex offender at a June boxing match to back up his claim that Giorgianni was healthy enough to be jailed immediately.

A prosecution witness, Dr. John Winant, told the court Tuesday that he examined Giorgianni and found "his asthma was more histrionics than disease."

Slain son of witness worked as informant

United Press International
NEW YORK — The slain son of a reputed mobster who was a key witness in the investigation of Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan secretly worked as an informant for special prosecutor Leon Silverman, law enforcement officials said Tuesday.

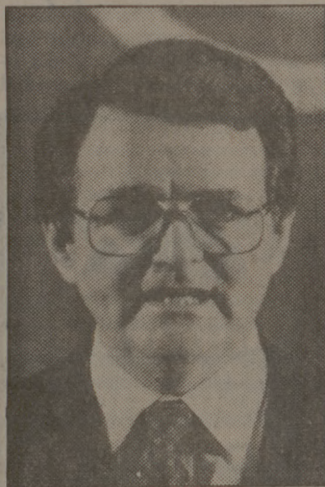

The officials said Nat Masselli, 31, shot to death gangland-style in the Bronx last week, had secretly assisted Silverman's investigation of Donovan.

William Masselli is co-owner of Jo-Pel, a Bronx construction company that did business with Schiavone Construction Co. of New Jersey, where Donovan was an executive before assuming his Cabinet post.

Silverman's June 28 report on the charges against Donovan disclosed Nat Masselli allowed the special prosecutor's investigators to tape four telephone conversations he had last May with Morris Levin, a lawyer for Schiavone.

Two federal law enforcement officials familiar with Silverman's investigation privately have criticized the special prosecutor for publicly disclosing Nat Masselli's willingness to permit the recordings.

But they said there was no evidence to indicate Masselli was slain for letting the special prosecutor record the conversations. Silverman could not be reached for comment.

Investigation of allegations Donovan had ties with organized crime figures.

Salvatore Orierno, 67, a reputed mobster from Valley Stream, has been charged with the murder.

The officials said on several occasions Masselli had worn a body microphone to meetings with people involved in Silverman's investigation and had worked for Silverman as an informant.

Masselli is the son of William Masselli, 55, a reputed member of the Genovese crime family who emerged as a key witness in Silverman's renewed investigation of Donovan.

Get to the answers faster. With the TI-55-II.

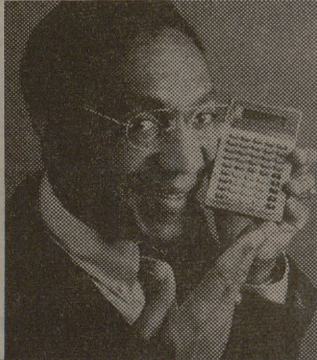

What you need to tackle the higher mathematics of a science or engineering curriculum are more functions—more functions than a simple slide-rule calculator has.

Enter the TI-55-II, with 112 powerful functions. You can work faster and more accurately with the TI-55-II, because it's preprogrammed to perform complex calculations—like definite integrals, linear regression and hyperbolic—at the touch of a button. And it can also be programmed to do repetitive problems without re-entering the entire formula.

Included is the Calculator Decision-Making Sourcebook. It makes the process of using the TI-55-II even simpler, and shows you how to use all the power of the calculator.
