

Mondale blasts '2 Americas'

Reagan: Program works

United Press International
SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — President Reagan, acknowledging that the spirit of the Labor Day holiday is marred because millions of Americans are out of work, said Saturday that unemployment must be curbed carefully with long-range policies.

In his weekly radio address to the nation, made outdoors in the gravel driveway of his mountaintop ranch, Reagan said unemployment "has been gaining on us for years," but that on this national holiday weekend nearly 100 million Americans do hold jobs.

"That's a terrible word, 'unemployed,'" Reagan said. "It means hardship, uncertainty, frustration, helplessness."

"Many who are unemployed feel caught up in something they don't understand and over which they have no control. And they are right. It's not the fault of the laid-off fellow in Detroit that he's out of work."

Reagan said his economic program "marks a decided turnaround from government tax and spend policies of the past four decades" and said there are signs his austerity management program "is beginning to work."

In a nationally broadcast Democratic response to Reagan, Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware did not address the unemployment issue but called for a Cabinet-level office to combat crime with federal money.

And former Vice President Walter Mondale delivered a paid radio address broadcast in several cities to attack the president's policies as having divided the nation into "two Americas" — one for the rich and the other for the poor.

In his speech, Reagan said the nation faces the test of whether it has "the will and determination to hold our course" — a clear warning to a vacationing Congress that when it reconvenes Wednesday it must act on his veto of a federal spending bill.

He said the $14.2 billion supplemental appropriations bill, if allowed to become law, "would drive up spending once again."

I hope we can work together to develop a more responsible bill."

Some 19,000 Internal Revenue Service workers — and perhaps others — are to be out of their jobs this coming week due to Reagan's veto, made on grounds the bill contained too much money for domestic programs.

The Labor Department announced Friday that the nation's unemployment rate remained steady at 9.8 percent in August, a figure which meant 10.8 million Americans were officially out of work.

Reagan said the unemployment problem was the result of several decades of government bungling.

"I guess what I am trying to point out is that our unemployment problem is due to more than just the present recession," he said.

"We must not only work our way out of the recession; we must adopt policies that will stimulate economic growth and create new jobs for the increased numbers entering the job market. This is the goal of our economic recovery program."

Violin contest a star-maker

United Press International
INDIANAPOLIS — It has been called the United Nations of violinists, and promises to turn an unknown musician into a star.

Fifty-one competitors from 16 countries will vie for concert careers and more than $100,000 in prizes and engagements at the world-class International Violin Competition of Indianapolis.

The musicians range in age from 18 to 30 and will participate in a competition that begins today and ends with the final awards ceremony Sept. 19.

"This competition will be a United Nations of violinists," said Josef Gingold, 72, honorary chairman and musical adviser for the competition.

"It will be a contest on a par with any international competition in the world," said Gingold, a native of Poland who began playing the violin at age 5.

The competition is the major contest dedicated exclusively to the violin and will be one of the richest of its kind.

Thomas Bezkiewicz, executive director of the competition, sponsored by Cathedral Arts.

The first place winner will receive a gold medal, $10,000, Carnegie Hall debut, Washington recital using one of the Library of Congress Gounneri or Stradivari violins in appearances with orchestras and chamber music groups in U.S. and Canadian cities. The winner also will perform in European cities.

The second place violinist receives a silver medal and $5,000. The third place contestant receives a bronze medal and $3,000.

The Off Campus Corner — Your Inside Connection

Approximately two-thirds of the Aggie student population lives off campus. Many off campus students tell us that they don't know about campus events and express the need for a "connection" between themselves and campus life.

This connection is provided for you each month in the "Off Campus Corner." This column is sponsored by the Off Campus Center in the Department of Student Affairs and Loupot's Bookstore. The "Off Campus Corner" will contain articles and tips regarding off campus living such as information on security deposits, preleasing, apartment security and roommates. The column will also provide off campus students with information concerning campus events and activities.

As you read the "Off Campus Corner" each month, we would like to encourage you to submit any questions, comments, or ideas that you may have. We invite you to bring your ideas by the Off Campus Center in Puryear Hall, directly across from the YMCA Building, or give us a call at 845-1741. Feel free to call or come by Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

It's Your Money

At the end of each semester, many students express complaints about their security deposits. These deposits usually range from $50.00 to $200.00 per person. If you do not take the precautions necessary to insure the return of your deposits, you may have a lot to lose.

Most of these requirements, which are identified in your lease, must be met approximately 30 days prior to the "move-out" date. However, there is something that you, as a tenant, can do now. This step involves completing a move-in condition form, or move-in inventory. This inventory sheet reflects the actual condition of each room in your apartment upon move in.

After completing the move-in condition form, be sure to have the apartment manager sign it, and keep a copy of the document for your files. You don't want to be charged for something, such as nail holes in your living room walls, just because you failed to write it down. This will also provide proof of the apartment's original condition if a discrepancy arises when the time comes for you to move out.

So to help insure the return of your security deposit, complete a move-in condition form today!

Look What's Up!

FRESHMEN STUDENTS LIVING OFF CAMPUS often express the desire to meet people and become involved in campus activities. The Off Campus Center in conjunction with the Off Campus Aggies and several area property management companies would like to give you a chance to meet your neighbors and become involved. During September and October, several parties will be held at various apartment complexes within the Bryan/College Station area. These get-togethers are designed specifically for incoming freshmen who want to meet fellow students, listen to music, and have some fun. If you're interested in having a good time, you should make plans to attend the Fish Night in your area. Check the Off Campus Calendar for specific times and locations. Be sure to look for flyers in your apartment complex, banners in the Memorial Student Center (MSC), and notices in the Battalion. We hope to see you there!

NEED A BREAK FROM STUDYING? The Off Campus Center has the perfect solution. On Wednesday, September 8, from 11:00 a.m. to 2 p.m., the OCC will be sponsoring a noon time get-together for off campus students called the "Brown Bag Rag." It will be held in The Grove and will feature various local musicians. Students are encouraged to bring a sack lunch and listen to the music. In case of rain, the musicians will perform in the MSC lounge. (Due to University rules, brown bags are not allowed in the MSC.)

IT'S ELECTION TIME AGAIN! Apartment president elections will be conducted on Thursday, September 16 for all students interested in representing their apartment complex through Off Campus Aggies. Becoming the president of your complex is a great way to get involved. Contact the OCC cubicle, room 216 MSC for details or call the Off Campus Center at 845-1741.

Loupot's Off Campus Corner is sponsored each month by Loupot's Bookstore at Northgate as a service to Texas A&M students. Stories and artwork are provided by the staff of the Off Campus Center.

A small protein produced in the intestine when it is full of food may help keep obese people from overeating. The substance is called cholecystokinin and is apparently the body's most effective own appetite suppressant. Recent tests by Cornell University psychologist show that people given small doses of the protein during meals consumed less food and spent less time eating than they did when given a placebo. Further studies will examine whether cholecystokinin can have a significant longlasting effect on eating habits.
