Union rallies mark 100th Labor Day

United Press International
Tradesmen staggered by the worst unemployment since World War II rallied thousands strong Monday, the 100th anniversary of the first Labor Day parade, while Americans bid summer farewell with beach parties, ballgames, concerts, and fireworks.

A Huckleberry Finn Raft Race in Connecticut, a Mr. and Mrs. Muscle Beach contest in California and an eclectic free concert featuring Count Basie, Glen Campbell and 5,100 fireworks shells in Chicago were all part of the nation's final big fling before falling temperatures and football take over.

Unionists were joined by politicians for election this fall at a "Solidarity for Survival" rally in Sioux City, Iowa, where nearly 4,000 people are jobless and another 2,500 are in the fourth month of a bitter strike.

A tradition started by a Paterson, N.J., machinist and a New York carpenter in 1882 was renewed by thousands of marching trade union members in parades across the country.

Marchers began gathering hours before step-off time for the New York City parade up Fifth Avenue, wearing union hats and buttons and waving pro-labor flags and banners.

"This is the beginning of the second century of the American labor unions and this labor movement is very much alive," said Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., who walked at the head of the parade.

But some union leaders said President Reagan's economic policies have built unemployment to a post-World War II high of 9.8 percent and threaten to disrupt or destroy the labor movement.

"The administration's current economic policies have produced a nationwide trend of union-busting attempts," said Robert Voorhies, president of Central Indiana's labor council and organizer of a sparsely attended, rain-hampered Indianapolis parade, the city's first in 40 years.

Chicago also staged its first labor parade in decades, topping it off with a Grant Park food festival where 30 vendors dished out the city's famed ribs, deep-dish pizza and other treats.

A free concert and spectacular fireworks display capped a weekend chock full of activities that drew thousands to the city's loop.

The thousands drawn to the North Carolina shore were disappointed when officials were forced to order beaches closed in Nags Head and warn against bathing in other communities. Winds whipping the ocean off the Outer Banks swirled undertows that made swimming hazardous.

About 200,000 people jammed into Ocean City, Md., were recovering from the shock of female green-and-purple-haired "new wave punk rockers" stripping off their bathing suit tops.

"You kind of expect some people to do some crazy things, this being the last weekend and all," lifeguard Al Fiedler said Saturday. "That, however, I wasn't ready for."

Get to the answers faster. With the TI-55-II.

What you need to tackle the higher mathematics of a science or engineering curriculum are more functions—more functions than a simple slide-rule calculator has.

Enter the TI-55-II, with 112 powerful functions. You can work faster and more accurately with the TI-55-II, because it's preprogrammed to perform complex calculations—like definite integrals, linear regression and hyperbolic—at the touch of a button. And it can also be programmed to do repetitive problems without re-entering the entire formula.

Included is the Calculator Decision-Making Sourcebook. It makes the process of using the TI-55-II even simpler, and shows you how to use all the power of the calculator.
