HOUSTON BALLET / "Cinderella"

One of the most dynamic dance companies in America, the Houston Ballet returns to OPAS with this fairy tale classic. A ballet that blends magical artistry with majestic technical skill, "Cinderella" is a principal touring production for the Houston Ballet this season. Just back from a European tour, the company is enjoying an international reputation with a resplendent repertoire of classics and contemporary works. "Houston? Purveyor of high-grade ballet? You bet!" SATURDAY REVIEW.

I MUSICI with Pina Carmirelli

Twelve maestros whose masterful interpretation of Baroque chamber music has earned for them international acclaim, I Musici was formed in 1952 at the Santa Cecilia Academy in Rome. Dedicated to inspiring new life in their chosen art, I Musici ("The Musicians") performs with a kind of flawless fire — virtuosity with nerve. I Musici plays the best Baroque in town. No matter what town they play in. "They gave the sort of performance that has delighted concertgoers and record collectors for years..." WASHINGTON POST.

ANNA RUSSELL

She lectures with laughter. She satirizes the music world with unparalleled wit and charm. She's Anna Russell. Delighting audiences for decades with her observations on music enthusiasts and the music they love, Ms. Russell makes serious music better. And serious music lovers much more tolerable. "Musical satire of the highest quality." NEW YORK TIMES.

"EVITA"

"Evita" is the Broadway play based on the life of Eva Peron, wife of the Argentine dictator Juan Peron. Winner of seven Tony Awards, including "Best Musical," "Evita" flares with Latin charm set against political intrigue. The musical won the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award in 1980 and six Drama Desk Awards. Filled with powerful music and a dynamic story line, "Evita" is "historical" drama certain to stir your emotions. This production is part of the play's first tour across America. "You must see 'Evita'!" NEW YORK POST.

CANADIAN BRASS

There's never been golden music like that of the Canadian Brass because these devoted musicians play gold-plated instruments! And when they play, it's 24-carat music. The first brass group ever to tour the People's Republic of China, the Canadian Brass gave their American debut at the Kennedy Center in 1975. They have toured Europe, the Soviet Union and the Far East. And wherever they go, whatever they play, from the traditional to the trendy, their music is worth a million. "... brilliant virtuosity and ensemble playing." NEW YORK TIMES.

EUGENE FODOR / Violinist

Acknowledged as one of the world's foremost living violinists, Eugene Fodor became the first American top prize winner of the International Tchaikovsky Competition since Van Cliburn. Since that time, he has performed on five continents, throughout the United States and with every major orchestra in the world. Combinations of technique, drive and sensitivity have won Fodor the highest acclamations in his recitals in London, Vienna, Budapest and Warsaw. "He interpreted the works of the masters in a manner that would have brought joy to their hearts." TOKYO NEWS.

MURRAY PERAHIA / Pianist

Winner of the Leeds Competition and the Kosciusko Chopin Prize, Murray Perahia has been called one of the most compelling pianists of his time. Critical acclaim and "sold out" concerts wherever he performs seem to verify the claim. A champion of style rather than virtuosity, Perahia is a master musician. His style is one of intelligence, sensitivity and taste. His interpretations are filled with divergent thinking and creative phrase structuring. He is a poet of the piano. "At least 99% of the time he makes you feel that you are finally hearing the perfect performance of whatever he may be playing." LOS ANGELES TIMES.

PITTSBURGH SYMPHONY Michael Tilson Thomas, conducting

The Pittsburgh Symphony believes in the music it plays. And it strives to communicate its enjoyment. Known for their television appearances with Andre Previn, the Pittsburgh Symphony spells accomplishment and eloquence. Its string tone sings, the woodwinds aren't overpowering and the brasses never blare out. Most of all, the Pittsburgh Symphony enchants its audience. "The symphony conveys a sense of enjoyment and is marked by unaffected vigor." NEW YORKER.

Catch hold of OPAS X! Be an OPAS member.

The Opera and Performing Arts Society marks its tenth anniversary season with a renewed spirit: OPAS X! For a decade OPAS has thrilled audiences with programs that have crossed cultural lines from Bach to Borge. And each year OPAS has grown through the support of the community and the campus.

This year, OPAS is reaching for the stars in its most dazzling season. OPAS X brings you a ballet, a renowned symphony, a world famous chamber group, two star soloists, a national brass ensemble, a Broadway hit and an outstanding musical comedienne.

But OPAS X doesn't just happen. It takes money. And time. And commitment. It takes you. OPAS ticket sales cover only a portion of the production costs. For other expenses, OPAS depends on contributions from its members. OPAS is a nonprofit organization of the MSC at Texas A&M University. It receives no state funds. Membership in OPAS is open to all who wish to make voluntary contributions to the program — over and above the cost of season tickets.

OPAS membership. Membership in OPAS is attained on one of many levels and all contributions are tax deductible.

Guarantees. OPAS membership on the guarantee level allows individuals to pledge specific dollar amounts to cover season deficits. These pledges are made prior to the season with assessments assigned at the final board meeting of the year. Guarantors are then billed the assessed percentage of their pledge.

Contributions. OPAS membership through contributions begin at $25. Levels of contribution include friends of OPAS — $25 to $49; sponsors — $50 to $99; patrons — $100 to $499; and trustees beginning at $500.

Other gifts such as performance underwriting and OPAS scholarships for students and senior citizens are welcome. Please contact OPAS for details.
