team," Briggs said. "We have a super opportunity to be the national champions this year and to repeat conference.

"The guys on the team are really excited about this year. We're going to have all of the guys back from last year's team and some great new guys."

But by Briggs' own assessment, the SWC should be a tight race.

"The Southwest Conference is strong," he said. "Houston is returning all of its guys from their national championship team and Texas has the same team this year also."

Women's coach Kitty Holley is also hopeful about the new season.

"The team looks very good," Holley said. "We only lost one player from last year's team and have a very good-looking crop of freshmen. We're going to perform and I'm really optimistic about the team this fall."

Following a week of intense practice, Holley said the team is anxious to get into tournament play.

Tournaments this weekend should be challenging for both teams as the men compete in the SWC Fall Tournament Monday and Tuesday and the women play in the Susie Maxwell Bering Invitational Monday through Wednesday.

Action in Arkansas begins with a practice round Sunday for the tournament, which will combine several different types of play into a split-team format.

"There will be two rounds Monday and one round Tuesday," Ellis said. "The first is an alternate-shot round and the second is a best-ball round. The third round will record the total strokes of both players on each team.

"There will be a two-man team champion and an overall team champion will be determined from the performance of the two-man teams. We have five players who qualified and one who received an exemption for the tournament.

"Danny Briggs and Gary Krueger will be on one two-man team, Paul Oglesby and Kel Devlin will be a team and Jacky Lee and David Jones will be a team."

Briggs said it was an unusual tournament in that it requires teammates to compete against each other more than usual.

"This weekend is not like the 54-hole medal play we do in the spring," Briggs said. "Gary and I will be competing against Paul and Kel and David and Jacky."

He said the two-man team with the low score will win the tournament and the school which has the low score after totaling the two-man scores will win.

Last season's upsets not likely to repeat in 1982

United Press International
NEW YORK — Revenge will be the order of the day Saturday, the first full schedule of college football games.

Nebraska, ranked third in UPI's pre-season balloting, plays host to Iowa while No. 4 Alabama travels to Georgia Tech. Also, No. 10 Michigan entertains Wisconsin in a Big Ten Conference game.

It should be recalled that Iowa stunned Nebraska, 10-7, last year, while Georgia Tech surprised Alabama, 24-21, for its only victory of the season. In addition, Wisconsin not only scored its first points against Michigan in five years, but beat the Wolverines, ranked No. 1 at the time, 21-14.

Nebraska, 9-3 last year, has been chosen as a two-touchdown favorite against Iowa.

Alabama, in search of another national championship for Coach Bear Bryant, is a three-touchdown choice over Georgia Tech. The Crimson Tide appear poised to avenge their only loss during the regular-season last year.

A crowd of more than 100,000 will jam Michigan Stadium to watch the Wolverines, favored by nearly two touchdowns, try to pay back the Badgers for last year's startling upset.

"This is one game I think everyone's looking forward to ever since last year," says Michigan linebacker Paul Girgash.

EAST — Penn State 31, Maryland 14 — Penn State's new offense, featuring a wide-open passing game, will prove too awesome for Maryland.

Others: Syracuse 24, Temple 13; Navy 17, Virginia 10; Colgate 27, Connecticut 10; Holy Cross 31, New Hampshire 14; Lafayette 17, Rhode Island 14.

SOUTH — Florida 21, Southern California 20 — After last week's victory over Miami (Fla.), Florida coach Charley Pell has his team sky-high for USC.

Brigham Young 21, Georgia 17 — With just four days to prepare for pass-happy BYU, Georgia seems ripe for an upset.

Alabama 28, Georgia Tech 10 — It's not often an Alabama team makes the mistake of losing to the same team two years in a row.

Miami (Fla.) 21, Houston 17 — Miami quarterback Jim Kelly finally shows off his passing ability.

Others: Auburn 28, Wake Forest 10; Mississippi 22, Southern Mississippi 20; Mississippi State 35, Arkansas State 14; Vanderbilt 21, Memphis State 20; North Carolina State 31, East Carolina 14; South Carolina 34, Richmond 16; Tennessee 21, Iowa State 20.

MIDWEST — Michigan 35, Wisconsin 17 — The wait has been a long one, but Michigan fans will be rewarded in victory.

Nebraska 31, Iowa healthy Turner Gill will back translates into a victory.
