Aggie Ladies trounce SHSU, win tournament

If the Texas A&M women's volleyball team keeps playing like it did Saturday in the Texas A&M Invitational, the Aggie Ladies should find themselves in California playing for the NCAA national championship in December.

Head Coach Terry Condon made it clear prior to the start of the 1982 season that her goal was to make the national tournament. Her players made it clear to Sam Houston State that their goal was the same.

The Aggie Ladies trounced the Bearkats 15-3, 15-6, 15-3 in Saturday's final to take the first-place trophy and improve their season record to 5-0.

Texas A&M reached the championship game by posting victories over the Bearkats, St. Phillips and Southwestern, but did not play as impressively in the preliminaries as in the final match.

"I think we were just getting tired," Condon said of the matches leading to the championship.

Fatigue was evident in the Aggie Ladies' final preliminary match against Southwestern as they jumped out to early leads, but had to ward off comebacks in all three games.

In the third game of the match, Texas A&M led Southwestern 9-2 and seemed to be cruising toward the championship match but the Aggie Ladies tired and let Southwestern catch up to make the game closer.

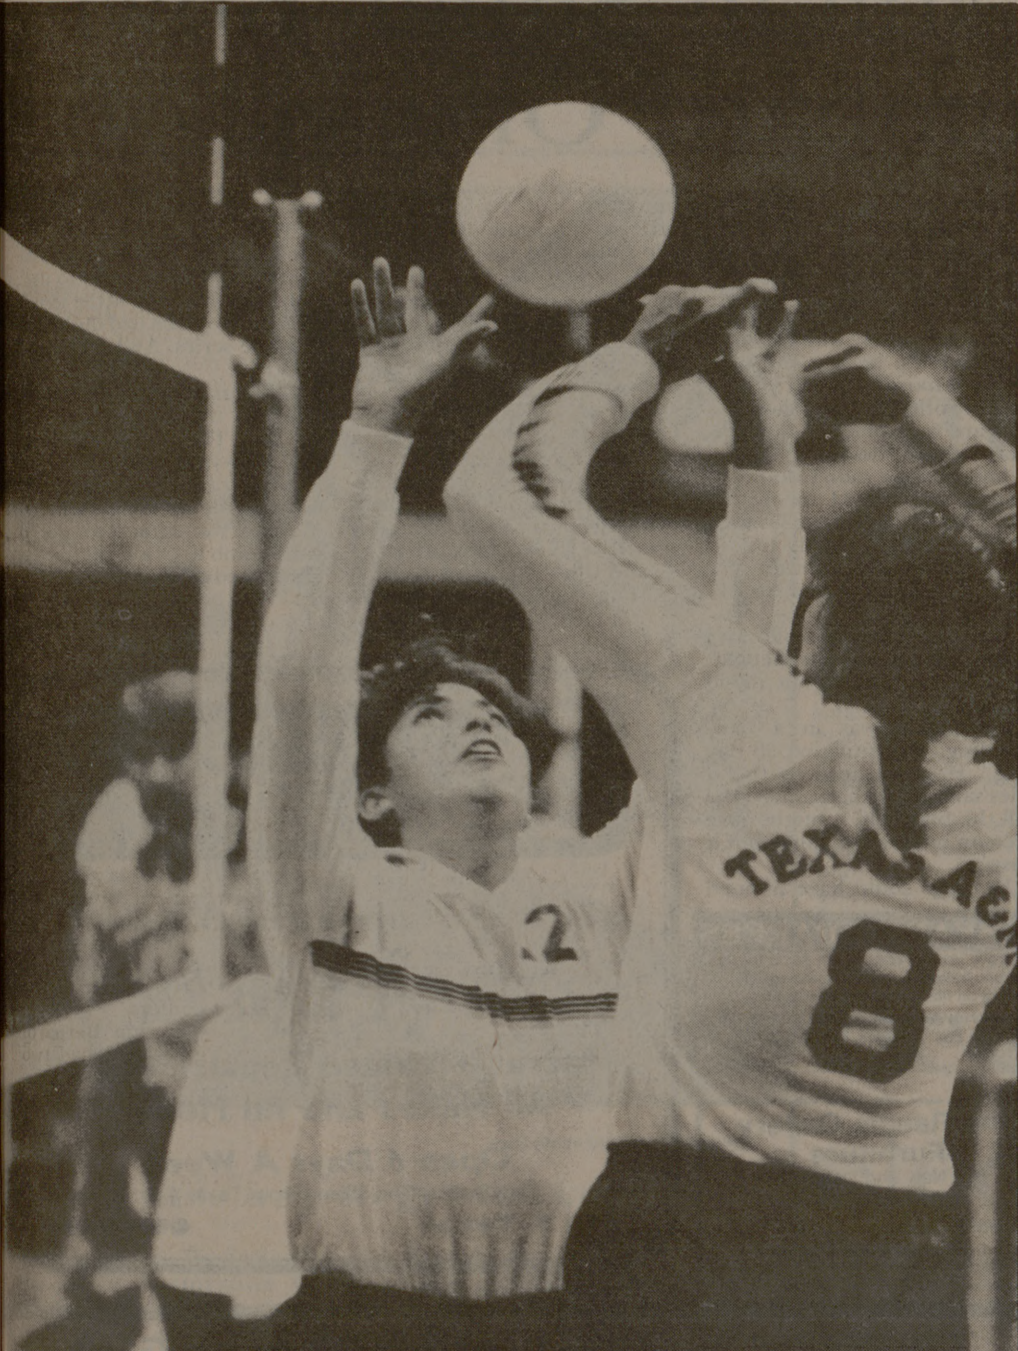

Condon utilized all but two of the players on the Texas A&M roster to keep fresh players in the game and beat Southwestern 15-10.

In the championship match, however, the Aggie Ladies did not show any signs of tiring. Texas A&M easily defeated the Bearkats behind strong play by Jennifer Giese, Joey Vrazel, Lisa Johnson and Sherri Brinkman. The foursome played well together combining for most of the Aggie Ladies' points in the match. Lesha Beakley, Linda Clausen and Sue Wetzel also performed well setting and blocking for the Aggie Ladies.

Texas A&M's next two matches will be Wednesday against the University of Texas at Arlington and Friday against Lamar. The Aggie Ladies then travel to Lincoln, Neb., for their biggest test thus far when they play in the Nebraska Tournament. All of the teams in that tournament were nationally ranked last year.

Setting the ball for A&M's Sue Wetzel (8) during the Aggie Invitational is Joey Vrazel, a junior transfer from Utah

State. The Aggies, now 5-0 for the season, swept past Sam Houston State in the championship match Saturday.

A bases-loaded walk to Linda Lancaster scored the Aggies' second run of the inning.

In the fifth, Jackson hit an inside-the-park home run with Cooper on first, putting Texas A&M ahead 4-0. RBI hits from Holthaus, Debbie Rollman and Cooper rounded out the Aggies' scoring for the day as they took the easy victory.

In game No. 4 of the day, Texas A&M topped Texas Tech again, 4-0, with McDonald pitching a four-hitter and piling up nine strikeouts. A two-RBI single from Lancaster in the fourth inning, along with a single from Gay McNutt, gave the Aggies three runs, while another came in on a Red Raider error.

The Aggies, led by Jackson's 2-for-3 and four RBI, trounced the Bears 7-0 in their final game Friday. Stoll pitched her first no-hitter of the season, picking up 13 strikeouts in the process. Foster had two hits and Rollman scored two runs.

Three runs in the second inning and five runs in the fifth brought Texas A&M an 8-1 triumph over SHSU in Saturday's first game. McDonald raised her record to 3-0 by striking out five and giving up three hits.

The Red Raiders fell prey to the Aggie offense in victory No. 7, as Foster, Cooper, Jackson and Austgen each had two hits. Austgen, picking up on last season's stolen base total, had two steals during the game. Stoll pitched a five-hitter for the victory.

The Bearkats matched the Aggies for eight innings in Saturday night's championship game, but Texas A&M's three runs in the ninth brought a 5-2 victory. Picking up single RBI for the Aggies were Carter, Lancaster and Austgen, with second baseman Holthaus picking up two RBI.

McDonald won the game on an eight-hitter with three strikeouts.
