Reagan faces second loss

Abortion bill loses

WASHINGTON — In President Reagan's second Capitol Hill defeat in as many weeks, the anti-abortion legislation he sought to make law was put to rest.

The measure was a major goal of Reagan and the New Right, but liberals Wednesday, following a two-month filibuster, successfully brushed it aside, at least for this year.

The measure would have banned federal funding and federal insurance coverage for abortion and encouraged quick review of the 1973 Supreme Court ruling legalizing abortion. It fell victim to three failures to stop a liberal filibuster and late Wednesday, an abrupt motion to table.

The third cloture attempt was defeated, 50-44, 10 short of the required 60. Moments later, a motion by Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., to kill the legislation passed, 47-46, with Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker, making a key parliamentary maneuver.

The tabling vote Wednesday was dramatic. The vote stood, 46-46, with only moments remaining. Baker then announced he was pairing his "no" vote with Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vermont, who would have voted "aye" if he were present. The pairs have no effect on the vote tally.

Then Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., voted "aye" and the final vote stood at 47-46. Had Baker not paired, the vote would have been 47-47 and the motion would have failed.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., sponsor of the anti-abortion amendment, took the floor and promised the political implications of the vote would go far beyond the Capitol.

Waving a copy of the Senate roll call recording the 47-46 vote to set the measure aside, Helms warned, "This is a record each senator who voted 'aye' will have to live with." Helms said the vote could spill over into campaigns, noting former Sens. George McGovern, D-S.C., John Culver, D-Iowa, and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who favored the right to choose abortion, were defeated in 1980.

Sens. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., and Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., leaders of the two-month filibuster, said they would work as hard today to kill a pro-school prayer amendment.

Both the anti-abortion and pro-prayer measures have been debated as riders to the legislation that must pass to increase the national debt limit.

Last week Reagan suffered his biggest defeat in Congress to date when the House and Senate overrode his veto of a $14.2 billion supplemental appropriations bill.

Reagan, as he did with the veto, made calls to members of Congress, but was again unable to muster enough support.

Despite Helms' warning about the political implications of the anti-abortion vote, 18 senators up for re-election in November voted to table Helms' measure.
