Mexican oil firm bribed

United Press International
LOS ANGELES — Federal documents show American petroleum equipment firms allegedly pay millions of dollars in bribes to officials of PEMEX, the Mexican national oil company.

The new information in the alleged scheme was made available Monday after the president of a Southern California firm pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting the $10 million bribery of two PEMEX officials.

Charles E. Miller, 54, of Anaheim, Calif., entered pleas on behalf of himself and his company, C.E. Miller Corp. of Irvine, Calif. He was ordered to appear Oct. 25 for sentencing by U.S. District Judge David W. Williams.

The firm could receive a maximum $1 million fine, while Miller is subject to a five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine.

The Justice Department said it was the first time an individual had been charged under the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, which prohibits Americans from bribing foreign officials to obtain or retain business.

The charges arose from an investigation, still in progress, of allegations that several American firms have made large payoffs to PEMEX officials to obtain or retain contracts for sale of petroleum equipment.

In court documents, the government charged that Miller and his company, now operating under a different name, were subcontractors for Crawford Enterprises Inc., of Houston — the target of an extended federal investigation.

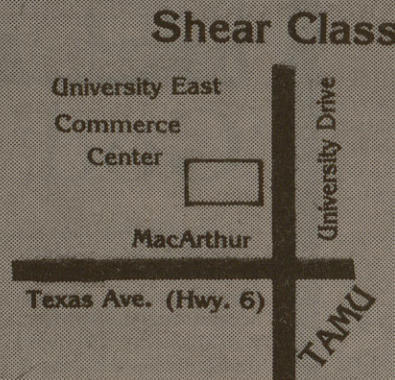

The Miller firm was contracted by Crawford Enterprises, which has denied any guilt in the scheme, to supply six turbine compression systems for PEMEX.

In late 1977, prosecutors said, Crawford Enterprises President Donald Crawford agreed to pay two PEMEX officials 5 percent of the purchase order value of any compression equipment contracts awarded to Crawford by PEMEX.

Prosecutors said Crawford, with Miller's assistance, paid the two Mexican officials approximately $9.9 million, which was included in their bids for the PEMEX contracts.

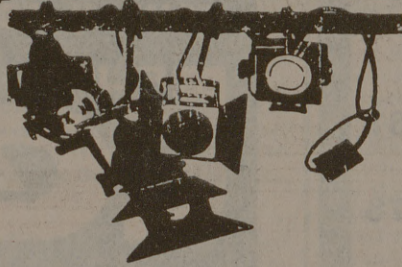

"As a result of this bribery scheme, (Crawford) obtained from PEMEX through various purchase orders and changes, approximately $225 million in contracts between June 1977 and March 1979," the government said.
