Jobless benefits decline

United Press International
WASHINGTON — The number of American workers receiving unemployment checks dropped by 260,800 to 4.1 million during the week ending Sept. 4, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

In the following week, which ended Sept. 11, new claims for benefits also dropped sharply, by 68,500 to 471,500.

A Labor Department spokesman said the decline was expected because the period is at a time when many persons return to school.

The figures reflect unadjusted data showing the actual number of persons affected in the two categories. Unlike the monthly unemployment rate report, which is based on a survey of 60,000 households, the unemployment benefits report is based on the actual number of recipients or applicants.

The unadjusted figures showed 3,578,100 recipients under state unemployment programs; 24,900 federal employees; 7,000 newly discharged veterans; 54,000 under a railroad retirees program, and 454,100 on extended unemployment benefits beyond the normal 26-week period.

NATO wargames conclude

United Press International
GAIBACH, West Germany — NATO wargames in Germany came to a close Thursday, and for dog soldiers who have been grinding up and down scenic central German hills for two weeks, "peace" can't come a moment too soon.

"The problem kicked off at midnight Sept. 13 and we've been going like hell ever since," said Staff Sgt. Saint Houston, of Colorado Springs, Colo., whose armored cavalry platoon was hidden in woods overlooking the town of Uffenbach.

The maneuvers have taken their toll on the civil populace as well.

On Tuesday, near Kembach, two U.S. Army trucks crashed into a German house, killing two women in their garden.

Minor injuries and slight damage to the town were reported. Army officials report that by Sept. 17 — five days into the exercise — and the latest date for which complete figures are available — there were seven deaths, 45 injuries and 1,921 separate incidents of maneuver damage.

The action picked up Tuesday after a weekend lull in annual NATO maneuvers in which 70,000 troops from six countries — including 19,000 shipped in from the United States — were organized into

"blue" and "orange" armies.

A drop Monday night by 82nd Airborne Division soldiers — flown in non-stop from Fort Bragg, N.C., and dropped en masse Sept. 23 — marked the change between attack and defense for both armies.

Their tactical jump by 350 soldiers was aimed at a drop near Kembach, but the jump went awry and landed at least one planeload of soldiers directly into nearby Gaibach.

Minor injuries and slight damage to the town were reported.

"I found one trooper showing for help from the second story of a barn," said Maj. Jim Dye. "I told him to come down and he said he couldn't. He was hanging by his harness from a hayloft, dangling right in front of the window."

After recovering from its initial ordeal, the force took over the town and after daylight captured a hapless military base from the rival 1st Armored Division as its bus entered town.
