Aggies

Hector and Jackson should be able to play against the Cougars. Marshall and Smith will start, but it's probable that both Jackson and Hector will see limited action.

So the Aggies, short-handed in the running back department, may have to once again rely on the most accurate arm in the SWC. Through four games, Kubiak has passed for 1,002 yards and eight touchdowns.

"It's hard to I'd say what'll happen Saturday," Kubiak said. "I'd say if (Hector and Jackson) don't play, we may pass a lot more and if they do, then we might not have to pass as much."

"I feel they'll be in the game," Wiggins has compiled 350 yards behind 21-0. but as for what happens when... and has scored four touchdowns.

Koalas have trouble bearing by United Press International

SYDNEY, Australia — Wildlife researchers are baffled by a sudden increase in diseases affecting one of Australia's most famous marsupials, the cuddly koala.
In some areas, up to 90 percent of female koalas are affected by cystic ovary disease, leaving many sterile, according to Dr. Frank Carrick, a researcher at the University of Queensland's Department of Veterinary Anatomy.
"We just don't know how serious this is yet," Carrick said. "It could be it's a natural population control mechanism of koalas. If it is, though, it's a pretty radical one."
Carrick said the teddy bear-like marsupials are not in danger of extinction because some populations remain relatively untouched by the disease.

"Only about 10 percent of females are affected in some areas," he said.
"However, the high incidence in other populations means it could lead to local extinction and severe population crashes. It is the stuff of which extinction is made."
Preliminary findings indicate the disease is most widespread where overcrowding has occurred, Carrick said.
"There seems to be a relationship between population density and incidence of the disease," he said. "We've found the problem is more widespread on islands and where the animals have been isolated by extensive land-clearing in surrounding areas."

Carrick said in some areas of overpopulation, koalas were completely stripping eucalyptus trees of leaves and would eventually face starvation if the trend continued.
"It's quite a problem trying to determine the cause of the cystic ovary disease because we don't even know what the koala's normal pattern of reproduction is," Carrick said. "So far we've determined females have a 36-day gestation period and an estrus cycle of 28 days. The koala is also one of the few marsupials to have a placenta like a human."

Antiques to be sold at Brazos Center show

Brass mirrors, old-fashioned dolls, polished oak bureaus and colorful glass collectables will be on sale today through Sunday at the Brazos Center.
Donna McDaniel, sales representative for Lloyd R. Ward & Associates said, "We promote an antique show in the Brazos Center about four times a year. We've been doing it for around three years."
The show's hours are Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m.
"The dealers sell strictly high class antiques," McDaniel said. "Prices will range from 10 cents to $50,000."

Around 60 state and out-of-state antique dealers will be at the Brazos Center this weekend for the three-day show.
"We have dealers coming from Chicago, Wisconsin, all over," McDaniel said. "This event is pretty popular for both dealers and buyers."
Admission to the antique show and sale is $2.50 for adults and free for children under 12 accompanied by an adult. This admission price includes all three show days.
