Alabama nominated 5 times

Country awards tonight

United Press International
NASHVILLE — Willie Nelson, Ricky Skaggs and Alabama are nominated for five awards each in tonight's nationally televised Country Music Association Awards show.

Barbara Mandrell, forced to cancel her popular network TV show because of the strain on her voice, has a chance to win country music's most prestigious award — Entertainer of the Year — for the third straight year. She is the only entertainer ever to win it twice.

Nelson, a former Entertainer of the Year who was favored to win the title again, refused to perform on the show in a dispute over how many members of his band could join him on stage. He was not scheduled to attend the show.

The man credited with launching country music's progressive "outlaw" movement also was nominated for top male vocalist, top entertainer, top album, vocal duo with Waylon Jennings and top song for "Always on My Mind," an award which goes to the songwriter.

Skaggs, 27, the hottest new performer to break out of Nashville this year, was the longshot for Entertainer of the Year. The bluegrass-flavored singer also was nominated for male vocalist, instrumental group, the Horizon Award and top single for "Crying My Heart Out Over You."

Alabama and the Oak Ridge Boys — whose appeal rests in the heart of the teen set — tried to become the first group ever to win country's top award. Alabama also was nominated for top vocal group, instrumental group, top album and top single for "Love in the First Degree."

Country singer George Jones, arrested for drunken driving twice and public drunkenness and cocaine possession once this year, was nominated for top album for "Still the Same Ole Me." He also was nominated for top male vocalist, an award he has won for the last two years.

Some of the biggest names in country music failed to make the cut for the CMA awards, voted on by the organization's 7,000 paying members.

Kenny Rogers, who makes about $2 million a month from entertaining, was not nominated. Dolly Parton, Crystal Gayle, Charley Pride, Don Williams and Johnny Cash also were absent.

While Cash wasn't nominated, his daughter, Rosanne, was a finalist in three of the 11 categories — female vocalist, top album and the Horizon Award, which is given to country's newest stars.

Others competing for female vocalist were Mandrell, Janie Fricke, Emmylou Harris and pop singer Juice Newton.

The winners were to be announced on the 90-minute awards show to be telecast live by CBS from the Grand Ole Opry House. Mandrell and Mac Davis are co-hosts of the program, which begins at 8:30 p.m.

The CMA, an organization formed to promote country music, hosts one of three country music awards shows. The others are the fan-voted Music City News Awards show and the Academy of Country Music Awards show.
