

Around town

Young Democrats to hold party

The Young Democrats of Texas A&M are sponsoring a party at Bee Creek Park on Thursday from 8 p.m. to midnight. There will be free beer and everyone is welcome. The purpose of the party is to acquaint the students and faculty of Texas A&M with the candidates for local office.

Horticulture club selling pumpkins

If you don't have a jack-o-lantern yet, today is the last day of the pumpkin sale sponsored by the Texas A&M Horticulture Club. The group will be selling the pumpkins outside the Plant Sciences Building.

Graduate student to receive award

Michael R. Strand, a graduate student in the Department of Entomology, is the 1982 recipient of the Entomological Society of America Southwestern Branch Graduate Student Award. This award is given annually to promote interest in the science of entomology at the graduate level. Strand will be presented an inscribed plaque during the annual meeting of the Entomological Society of America and will attend the national meeting, all expenses paid, as part of his award.

Madrigal dinner tickets to be sold

Tickets for the second annual Memorial Student Center madrigal dinners, to be held Dec. 3-5 and Dec. 8-10, will go on sale Nov. 1 at the Rudder Tower Box Office.

The dinners will feature troubadours, jugglers and dancers. Music, dance, food, fun and a chance to do early Christmas shopping at the Merchant's Market are also planned as part of the medieval holiday celebration.

Tickets are $10 for students and $15 for non-students. Patron's tables are also available at $300 per party of six. All profits from the dinners will go toward student scholarships.

'83 Aggield looking for features

The 1982-83 Aggield staff is looking for a few good people. If you have an interesting talent or hobby, they may be interested in doing a feature on you. Contact the Aggield in 011 Reed McDonald or call Dena or Lynn at 845-2682.

BANA majors receive scholarships

Three Texas A&M students in the Department of Business Analysis and Research have been awarded $1,000 scholarships from Standard Oil Company of California.

William M. Allen, a senior BANA major, Julie Van Doren, a master's student with emphasis in business computing science, and Kirt B. Morris, also a master's student in business computing science, are the three recipients of Standard Oil's first annual awarding of the scholarships. They were chosen on the basis of their academic standing in business analysis as well as in overall course work. Extracurricular activities and faculty recommendations were also considered.

Standard Oil to visit campus

The Data Processing Management Association, an organization for undergraduate and graduate students in business computing science, is sponsoring a presentation by Standard Oil Company of California representatives on career paths in the company. All interested students are welcome to come to the presentation tonight at 7:30 in the Ramada Inn.

Houston executive to speak

The real estate program in the College of Business Administration is sponsoring the 1982-83 Visiting Executive Speaker Series Monday. This year's speaker will be Mr. Howard W. Horne, chairman of the board at Horne Company Realtors.

Horne will speak four times and all interested persons are invited to attend. At 10 and 11 a.m. the speech topic will be "The Houston Investment Climate." At 2 and 3 p.m., he will speak on "Managing the Commercial Brokerage Firm". Both lectures will be in 130 Academic and Agency Building.

If you have an announcement or interesting item to submit for this column, come by The Battalion office in 216 Reed McDonald or call Tracey Taylor at 845-2611.

Brainy tourney tonight

The Memorial Student Center College Bowl tournament will be held from 6 to 10 tonight in 502 Rudder.

The tournament consists of matches between two teams of four students answering questions about the arts, humanities, sciences and mathematics.

To start the 14-minute match, the teams are asked a toss-up question worth 10 points. The team which answers the question correctly has the chance to answer a bonus question worth 20 to 40 points. The team with the most points wins the match.

Sue Leibert, College Bowl adviser, said the matches will begin every 30 minutes.

Many of the teams playing in the double elimination tournament have won as many as three matches since the tournament started in September, she said. Teams in the winner's bracket who have won four matches will advance to the Nov. 10 semifinals. Teams which lost one match must win up to seven matches to advance to the final competition.

Gina Muras, left, a junior from La Grange, and Dennis Joy, a senior from San Antonio, are busy selling pumpkins for Halloween. Both are horticulture majors.

The average selling price of pumpkin is $2 to $3; proceeds benefit University Horticulture Club.

Mental energy, poltergeists subject of psychic's lecture

by Patti Schwierke
Battalion Reporter
Psychic phenomena were the subject of a lecture Tuesday night by a self-proclaimed psychic.

Donna Buhman of Austin

discussed a number of paranormal incidents during "Poltergeist: Fact or Fantasy?" presented by MSC Cepheid Variabile.

"Do you feel different as you drive in to Austin?" she asked. Buhman said people feel different when they enter the city because Austin is a vortex of energy. Other vortices of energy include the Bermuda Triangle, Black Forest of Germany and a place near Santa Fe, N.M.

People are attracted by the energy radiated by the Austin area, she said.

And spirits linger after death, she said, to complete unfinished business, to give things to people and to help the living develop their own psychic powers.

Once, a friend of Buhman's was murdered for hire and revealed the number of the pay-off check to a person still living, she said.

As for Poltergeist, she said Spielberg's imagination is "really wonderful." Parts of the movie are very realistic, parts are very Hollywood.

Poltergeists are energetic perhaps spirits or souls make choices by free will like wood, metal and stone the spirit vibrations.

Buhman added that powers are latent in everyone just awaiting development.

"The imagery part of it is always present and waiting to emerge," she said.

First thoughts and impressions are right-brain oriented where the creative process is located. By the time we are years old, we have been conditioned to think with our left brain which stunts our creativity.

People have to learn how to see auras and fields, she said. If the left brain had not been conditioned to predominate then we would not lose our psychic power, she said.

Economy featured in lecture series

by Myra Retta
Battalion Reporter
The Texas A&M Center for Education and Research in Free Enterprise is presenting the lecture series "Taming Leviathan: Defederalizing the American Economy." It will start Thursday and continue through February.

The speakers featured in the series are individuals recognized for stimulating changes in public policy. They will speak on the relationship between the individual and government.

Karl Brunner, director of the Center for Research in Government Policy and Business, and Fred H. Gowen, an economics professor from the University of Rochester, will begin the series Thursday with a presentation entitled "The Taming of Leviathan: Monetary Power."

Henry Manne, director of Law and Economics Center, law professor at Emory University, will speak Monday. The topic will be "The Modern Corporation and the Free Society."

Three more lectures are given during the spring semester. "Private Provisions of Services," "Revitalizing Philanthropy," and "The Corporation as a Citizen of the State" will be presented during the semester.
